Death of Movie Stunt Aviatrix Turns Attention of Colony To Its Doubles

HOLLYWOOD Calif, Jan 28—The tragic death of Lita Belle Wichart, pretty 28-year-old movie stunt aviatrix in a parachute leap prompted the movie colony today to turn its attention to the many hazards in the life of that obscure creature whose deeds are unchronicled and uncelebrated in the annals of the cinema but whose daily presence is of vital importance to the great film industry—the double.

It was while doubling in a perilous episode of an aviation picture starring Ruth Elder and Hoot Gibson that Mrs. Wichart fell to her death from an altitude of 2000 feet while her husband and members of the cast looked on in horror.

A canvass of eight of the largest Hollywood studios conducted by International News Service revealed only one other fatal accident to a double in recent years.

This was the crash of a rebuilt army plane on Dec 30 1927 which resulted in the death of Al Johnson one of the screen's most capable stunt fliers and wing-walkers. Johnson had taken off but could not gain altitude rapidly enough to avoid striking a high voltage transmission wire. He was electrocuted and his plane

American Girl, Wife of Former Maharajah, Becomes Mother

LONDON Jan 28—Devi Shar mishta the former Nancy Miller of Seattle Wash who is now the wife of Tukojirao Kolkar former maharajah of Indore gave birth to a baby girl Saturday night in Paris Indian News Service dispatches received here today revealed.

Both mother and daughter are doing well the dispatches added. The new arrival will be entitled to call herself a princess the Indian News Service stated.

The Hindu equivalent for christening will occur 13 days after birth when the child will be given a name in the presence of her father mother and an official priest of that faith.

The former maharajah and his wife have been living at the Chateau Hollar formerly the Chateau D Hauteseul in St Germain near Paris for some time.

NEWS that the stock was expected was first learned last October. At that time dispatches from Indore told that a request for the usual ceremonial propitiating the family deity and asking his blessing had been received there from Paris. Worship of the god Khandoba was then immediately begun at Indore and at two other centers especially sacred to the deity of the Holkar family.

The former Miss Miller was wed to the Hindu noble in a two-day ceremony at Barwahi Indore on March 17 1928. The wedding was carried out in sumptuous oriental splendor and was attended by all the nobility of Indore.

The American born bride had first to forego Christianity and take up the Hindu faith. The

IOWA VILLAGE CUT OFF, WITHOUT FOOD

Colesburg Isolated by Snow-Filled Highways and Raging Blizzard

CEDAR RAPIDS Ia Jan 28—Virtually cut off from the outside world and with food and fuel supplies exhausted the little town of Colesburg, in Delaware county today faced a serious crisis. Snow filled highways and a raging blizzard have isolated the town since Thursday.

After fighting snowdrifts for many hours a bobsled carrying a few sacks of coal and some provisions managed to get through to the stricken village late yesterday from Petersburg, a railroad point eight miles away.

Two cars of coal and foodstuffs are on a Chicago & Great Western siding at Petersburg but because of the huge drifts covering the highways the stuff could not be moved to Colesburg which is not on a railroad.

FLIES TO FATHER

S S Strauss at Bedside of His Dying Parent

ST JOSEPH, Mo Jan 28—S S Strauss New York capitalist was at the bedside of his dying father Levi Strauss today after a speedy flight by Pacific airplane and rail trip from New York.

Learning of his aged father's condition late Saturday Strauss flew in an open cockpit from Curtiss field New York to Cleveland where he was forced to abandon the plane because of the extreme cold.

He continued the trip by train reaching here at the sunrise.

The aged father was reported resting comfortably this morning.

HAAS, MULVAINE HEARING FEB. 5

State Real Estate License Board to Hold Session Here

Carl R Haas local realtor, and E H McIlvaine real estate salesman will be given a rehearing before the state real estate licensing board Feb 5 according to announcement today. The hearing will be held in Marion, probably in the probate court room.

The board will rehear charges filed against Haas and McIlvaine by Harry Lewis Ives. The charges were responsible for the board's recent action in denying Haas and Mulvaine licenses to engage in real estate transactions as agents.

Haas and McIlvaine will be represented at the hearing here by Attorneys Grant E Mouser sr and Homer E Johnson.

50 PERSONS GO THROUGH THIN ICE AT NEW PARK

QUINCY Mass Jan 28—Nearly 50 persons many of them children were recovering today from the effects of exposure and cold when they crashed through the thin ice on Mattson pond at the new West Quincy winter park while 13000 persons attended an ice carnival celebrating the opening of the park.

Many city and state officials were present. Many dramatic rescues prevented what might have turned the celebration into tragedy.

DEFENSE KEPT SECRET AS SLAYER FACES TRIAL

ATLANTA Jan 28—The defense of Richard Gallagly alleged accomplice of George Harsh the coll's ate thrill bandit slayer was a closely guarded secret today on the eve of his trial for life in Fulton superior court.

Meanwhile it was learned that Harsh under sentence to die in the electric chair March 15 for the slaying of Willard Smith a drug clerk, possibly may be the state's star witness against his erstwhile school mate.

LOST GLORY

Robber Escapes While Policeman Walks Around Car

AKRON, Jan 28—Glory is fleeting.

Anyone who disbelieves this may easily be convinced by Patrolman Roger Hostetler.

Hostetler captured a bandit at work in a downtown bakery last night, disarmed him and placed him in the front seat of his automobile.

Then the policeman walked around the rear of the car to enter the driver's seat.

While he was thus engaged the robber ran also, hopping on the running board.

All Hostetler has to show for his work is the robber's gun.

HOUSE LEADERS SEEK DEFEAT OF DRY FUND

Administration Group Plans Temporary Change in Rules

DRY, WETS COMBINE

Curb on Mellon Tax Refund Policies In For Fight

WASHINGTON Jan 28—Administration leaders of the house have decided upon the extraordinary procedure of proposing a temporary change in the rules of that body in order to defeat the senate's $24,000,000 dry fund appropriation and the curb put upon the tax refund powers of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, it was learned today.

The unusual action it appeared will be forced by a combination of southern drys and a small group of wets who are determined to force an unwanted $24,000,000 on the dry regime and the fight made by Representative Garner, Democrat of Texas against the tax refund policies of the treasury.

Although the senate returned the first deficiency bill to the house last week containing the two riders the measure has remained muzzled upon pending mapping out of a course of action by leaders.

While appropriation bills on which the two houses disagree are usually sent to conference committees for ironing out the differences the backers of the Harris dry amendment and the McKellar tax refund amendment served notice that they would refuse the necessary unanimous consent to give the bill to conferees.

The alternative has thus been placed before the house leaders of either [illegible] to suspend the rules and send the bill to conference, which would require a two thirds vote or to ask a special rule making it in order for the bill to be sent to conference which requires only a majority vote.

WOMAN IS FATALLY HURT AS CAR SKIDS

Husband of Mrs Emanuel Lust Escapes with Slight Bruises

BUCYRUS Jan 28—Mrs Emanuel Lust 70 was fatally injured and her husband escaped with only slight injuries at 9 30 o'clock Sunday morning when the automobile in which they were riding skidded off the icy road into a ditch near their home at Brokenswood.

Mrs Lust died a few minutes after the crash. Her husband was moved from the wreckage by neighbors. A Bucyrus and Lust ambulance removed the body of the aged victim to her home.

The aged couple were on their way to Church when the accident occurred. Mrs Lust was born July 27 1858 in Whetston township and was the daughter of Samuel and Meath Hark reliya. She was married in Tuscarawas. Last who with the following children survive: Mrs J C Fine Holmes township; Mrs A L Lutze Youngstown; Martha Thomas Wilfred Lust and Edna D Cincinnati. Three grandchildren and one brother E L Sherer and one sister Mrs J J Kurtz of Whitestone town hip also survive. One sister Mrs S O Beal preceded in death.

Funeral services will probably be held from the home at 1 30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon followed by services at the Brokenswood Evangelical church of which the deceased was a member. Rev Perry officiating. Burial will be made in Brokenswood cemetery.

BERT B. BUCKLEY GOES ON TRIAL

DR. E. E. LYNCH CLAIMED AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Former Health Board Member Passes Away at Home

WORLD WAR VETERAN

Was Former Mayor of Ridgeway American Legion To Conduct Rites

Dr Elmer E Lynch aged 61 World War veteran and former member of the Marion city board of health died at his home 703 Bellefontaine avenue about 2 30 o'clock Saturday afternoon following a long illness of arthritis. Dr Lynch had been in poor health the last three years and during the last year or more had been bed fast practically all the time.

Dr Lynch's death closed a long career as a practicing physician that started in Mt Victory following his graduation from the school of medicine in Toledo university. Dr Lynch came to Marion on May 7, 1920 previous to which he had practiced in Mt Victory and Ridgeway. He also attended the University of Cincinnati for a short while before getting his degree from the Toledo school.

Had Rank of Major

During the closing months of the World war Dr Lynch had an unusual advancement. He entered the medical corps on Jan 2 1918 reporting at Camp Mac Arthur, Texas as a second lieutenant. Before the war ended he had attained the rank of major in the corps. Following the close of the war Dr Lynch was kept in the Texas training camp to aid in ministering to disabled veterans. He was in this work for about three months.

Shortly after coming to this city Dr. Lynch became active in public life. Under former Mayor George Neely he was appointed a member of the board of health, a position which he held for three years. In the campaign of 1924 he was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for mayor.

In addition to his official services here Dr Lynch served eight years as mayor of Ridgeway.

Four S O S Plans Made by Disabled Vessels in Mid-Ocean

NEW YORK Jan 28 Ring Neptune within 10 miles his choleric fury 4 days as ice on ships cached to the aid of four vessels disabled in mid Atlantic.

Storms and gales more intense than those which wrecked havoc along the shipping lanes last week were reported raging in mid Atlantic.

Officials of the Radio Marine Corp said this morning that no further word had been received from the British steamer, Silver Maple, which flashed an S O S through the ether Saturday from a point 700 miles east of Boston. The coast guard cutters, Modoc and Pampa were speeding to the aid of the foundering ship, however, and expect to reach her position by late tonight.

The three other distressed vessels, the Cape Vado, the Diplaus and the Perugia also were intercepted this morning. Liners seeking to find them radioed requests yesterday, but sent no additional word today.

Hope has been practically abandoned for the trawler, Selma, sinking with a crew of 22, in Cape Race Boston and Newfoundland. The Selma has not answered radio calls for four days and rescue ships can find no trace of her.

TREASURER OF OHIO ACCUSED OF BRIBERY

Charged with Offering Dry Official $300 Monthly for Raid "Tips"

JURY IS SELECTED

District Attorney Takes Less Than Two Hours for Opening Statement

COLUMBUS Jan 28—How a high state official is alleged to have bribed a prominent federal prohibition enforcement official, was told to federal court here today as Bert B Buckley, state treasurer went on trial on bribery and liquor conspiracy charges.

Haverth Mau Cincinnati, district attorney who is prosecuting the case took less than two hours to deliver his opening statement. The defense's opening [illegible] is expected to be made late this afternoon.

The trial moved with unprecedented swiftness.

Mau, in his jury statement, declared that Buckley offered John F Lockhart $300 every month for [illegible] as to when raids would be made on the Jackson Brewery Co, which, it was charged, was manufacturing beer that contained over the legal 2 percentage. Joseph Schrimpf of Cincinnati, attorney, and John Spencer brewmaster at the Jackson plant who were jointly indicted with Buckley and who pleaded guilty to the charges persuaded Buckley to bribe Lockhart, Mau continued.

Mau Makes Charges

Buckley offering the federal officer, $300 a month, Buckley also offered to use his political influence to obtain for Lockhart the position of administrator of the prohibition department of Ohio, Mau said. Buckley's alleged discrepancies last over a period of four months, the Cincinnati prosecutor charged.

The case was the outgrowth of the discovery by two federal agents of beer of illegal percentage in the Cincinnati brewery. Spencer as brewmaster, sought the services of Schrimpf as an attorney and the attorney immediately sought the aid of Buckley. It is charged. The four Buckley was told, was intended for the American Legion convention in Cleveland, which was then in session.

Jury Picked

Shortly before noon, the jury, composed of the following members, was sworn in:

Head of Corporation Says Television Ready To Take Place With Radio In Home

Denies Charges That New Art Is "Still Long Way Off" by Claiming It Has Passed the Laboratory Stage; Not Yet Perfected

Editor's Note—This is the first of the three exclusive articles dealing with television and the efforts to develop the transmission of motion pictures into the home. The subject has aroused much discussion and some controversy in radio circles.

BY JAMES L. KILGALLEN
Staff Correspondent, The Star
(Copyright, 1929)

NEW YORK, Jan. 28—I disagree with those who would have us believe that television is simply a laboratory experiment.

I claim television has definitely emerged from the laboratory and is prepared to enter the home in a remarkably refined form.

James W. Garside, president of the De Forest Radio Corp. and president of the newly formed Jenkins Television Corp., made these assertions today in discussing the status of television which some claim is "still a long way off." Mr. Garside however believes that transmission of motion pictures by radio into the home—an achievement that until recently had been the conjectural stage—will in the not distant future be a daily actuality.

Some Disagree

Not all radio men of high standing agree with Mr. Garside on the imminence of the practicability of television. This is explained by Garside, who takes the opportunity to lay the cards on the table.

"Let me hasten to explain that the radio industry today is enjoying the greatest and soundest prosperity it has ever known," declared Mr. Garside to International News Service. "Everyone who has the interests of the radio industry at heart is anxious to see this prosperity continue. We are prepared to do our utmost to safeguard this prosperity.

"But the policy of 'let well enough alone' never worked well in any industry, and radio can be no exception. Those who fear that too much television talk may scare away radio buyers and result in a stagnant market, such as occurred after the A. C. tube bombshell was suddenly cast into the radio camp are—to my way of thinking—underrating the intelligence of our public.

Burn Midnight Oil

"Behind the talks and statements of many radio men there is positive proof that much midnight oil is being consumed by their engineering staffs for the purpose of stealing to first base on television ahead of the other fellows. 'Television is still a long way off' is too often a thin smoke screen behind which there is much activity these days.

"Now it is my belief that the public is always more intelligent than we give it credit for being. They can be told the facts and then left to decide for themselves whether to wait for a perfected television and broadcast receiver or get into well-nigh perfect broadcast reception and pioneer television fun today.

Not Perfected

"I hasten to state emphatically that television is by no means a perfect art. For that matter the electric light with its low efficiency as compared with the theoretical ideal of cold light, the automobile compared with the economy and durability of the steam locomotive, the talking motion picture machine contrasted with the flesh and blood inventions are still far from perfect. They are being steadily refined over a period of years and decades.

"I disagree with those who would have us believe that television is simply a laboratory experiment and that it has no place in the home today. I choose the middle ground claiming that television has definitely emerged from the laboratory and is prepared to enter the home in a remarkably refined form, although there will be steady improvement as the result of every day usage and wide spread interest."

(In the next article Mr. Garside will tell of how much progress has been made in the art of transmission of movies by radio).

All generations pay for the previous generation's wars.

Miami Waits to See If Smith and Hoover Meet; Both Now In Florida City

Former Governor's Arrival Marks First Time In History Rival Candidates Have Been Domiciled in Same Town at Same Time

BY GEORGE R. HOLMES
Marion Star Staff Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 28.—Herbert Hoover resumed the job of president-elect today.

Back at the Belle Isle retreat, rested and tanned from two days under the tropical sun, Mr. Hoover settled into a mass of work that included everything from personal conferences to getting a start on the inaugural address which he will make the fourth of March.

Matters of interest, however, lay in the direction of the president-elect's Republican callers, nor what he will say on March 4, but whether he is to receive Al Smith, the man whom he defeated for the presidency. Former Governor Smith arrived in Miami yesterday, and the whole winter colony is speculating upon the prospects of a meeting between the two. They have met only once before, and that perfunctorily, and long before either thought of being rival candidates for the presidency.

Smith was not on Mr. Hoover's engagement list today, but it isn't considered likely that he will leave Miami without paying his respects to the victor in the November battle. Smith is here on a vacation, and to use his own expression "politics is adjourned."

Dips in Ocean

The former governor spent most of yesterday dipping into the ocean, accompanied by William F. Kenny and John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee.

Smith's arrival in Miami with Chairman Raskob, marked probably the first time in history that rival candidates for the presidency and their respective campaign managers have been domiciled in the same town and the same time. Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the Republican national committee, is also a Miami visitor at this time, having accompanied Mr. Hoover south.

The controversial question of southern patronage occupied a good part of Mr. Hoover's time today. While he pursued the sailfish and the swordfish among the Florida Keys, Miami Beach became cluttered up with captains and lieutenants of the "new south," all willing and eager to point out to the president-elect how to consolidate the gains scored up in the November election.

Mann on List

Col. Horace A. Mann was on the engagement list today. He is the so-called "mystery man" of the Republican campaign. Ostensibly working independently of the Republican national committee, Colonel Mann organized and directed the campaign against Al Smith below the Potomac, and the results of his work astonished even the Republicans themselves.

Colonel Mann believes that the break in the solid south can be made permanent—providing that the new Republican blood is given sufficient recognition. Recognition involves federal offices. It is this problem of recognition that he will discuss with Mr. Hoover.

Guests at Belle Isle last night included Cyrus H. K. Curtis, the publisher, Ex-Gov. James P. Goodrich, of Indiana; Irving Bachellor, the author; and James Francis Burke of Pittsburgh, counsel to the Republican national committee.

Another fishing trip into the Florida keys is planned by Mr. Hoover, to start probably on Wednesday.

AGENCY DELEGATION GOING TO MEETING

The Marion agency of the Ohio State Life Insurance Co. will send a delegation to Columbus this week to attend the annual agency assembly of the company, E. G. Siefert, local agency manager announced today. In the party will be: Siefert, Fred W. Loch, R. E. Prettyman, C. E. Baseler and J. H. Guthery, of Marion; C. E. Baird, Edison; F. A. Shafer, New Washington; W. C. Jacobs, Richwood; G. H. Whitney, Mt. Gilead; U. F. Bruning, Delaware; J. C. Mortland and W. L. Schreck, Galion.

Speakers at the meeting will be C. J. Rockwell, Chicago; Russell M. King, Indianapolis, and C. M. Newcomb, Cleveland.

Baird nd Loch of the Marion agency, are members of the Ohio State Life $200,000 clubs and Shaffer and Prettyman are members of the $100,000 club.

THE oft-told joke about gazing upon her shining countenance will no more apply to Rosalie, even should she neglect to powder her nose as frequently as necessary. She has acquired a new preparation which removes the shine and also causes the powder to adhere to the skin. And even if dubious about it enduring throughout the dance, Rosalie reflects that the box is so small, just like a compact, in fact, that she can easily take it with her; "just in case" you know.

PRESENTS PROBLEM

Ohio Man Explains Onion Growers State to Committee

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28—Representatives of American Onion Growers, who went before the house ways and means committee here seeking a 1½c and one-half cent a pound tariff upon imported onions, today were confident that they would obtain relief in the forthcoming tariff bill. The reception they received late Saturday appeared to be unusually sympathetic.

J. B. Stambaugh, of Ada, O., of the Ohio Onion Growers and the National Onion association; James O'Keefe of the Southwest Texas Onion Growers association and C. F. Clark, representing Connecticut growers, made the plea. Eight speakers had been scheduled to appear, but because they were not reached until very late in the day it was agreed that three should speak for all.

Stambaugh explained th higher labor costs in the United States and the nearness of foreign onion fields to the sea, giving cheaper transportation, put American growers at a disadvantage.

AGOSTA WOMAN IS STRICKEN AT HOME

Death Comes Suddenly to Mrs. Alice Beckley; Funeral Held Today

Mrs. Alice Beckley, 69, died at her home in Agosta about 9:30 o'clock Saturday night after a sudden heart attack that occurred while she was seated in a chair in her home reading a paper. Mrs. Beckley had apparently been in fairly good health before her death.

She was born at Brush Ridge on April 21, 1859 to George and Margaret Dutton Wilson. She married James Beckley in Agosta in October, 1880. Mr. Beckley is confined to his home by a serious illness and will not be able to attend the funeral of his wife.

Mrs. Beckley was a member of the Rebekah lodge at Agosta and of the Baptist church at Brush Ridge.

She is survived by three sons, Jesse Beckley and LeRoy Beckley, of Agosta, and Frank Beckley, of Marion, one daughter, Mrs. Ella DeHaven, of Agosta, and one brother, Everett Wilson, of Martel.

Funeral services were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Methodist church at Agosta The Rev. S. P. Porter, pastor of the Emmanuel Baptist church in Marion, was in charge and burial was made in Agosta cemetery. Services were in charge of the Rebekah lodge of Agosta.

NEVADA CLUB PLANS BIRTHDAY LUNCHEON

NEVADA, Jan. 28—Miss Ruth Kuenzli was hostess to the Current Events club at her home Saturday afternoon. Miss Kuenzli was program leader, and gave a talk on "From Const t Const by Automobile." The next meeting will be a birthday luncheon at the home of Mrs. Etta Heistand, Saturday, Feb. 16.

PASTOR RESIGNS

REV. L. J. HOUGHTALING

ENGLISH LUTHERAN MINISTER RESIGNS

Rev. L. J. Houghtaling To Terminate Service in Marion, April 1

The resignation of the Rev. Lester J Houghtaling, pastor of St. Paul's English Lutheran church, Bellefontaine av. and Windsor st., was presented to the congregation and accepted yesterday morning. The resignation, which becomes effective April 1, was presented to the official board of the church three weeks ago.

In February, 1927, the Rev. Mr. Houghtaling received the call to the local church and arrived in this city in May, after his graduation from Hamma Divinity Seminary, religious department of Wittenberg College, Springfield. He was ordained at Albany, N. Y., in June.

The Rev. Mr. Houghtaling has not announced his plans after the resignation becomes effective.

No arrangements have been made by the local church to appoint a successor to the retiring pastor.

Small enough to be carried in a pocket, a holder has been invented for a pocket rule to enable it to be used at various angles for aligning angles, a spirit level bein gincluded in its base.

BLASPHEMY CASES

Are Now Being Heard in German Civil Courts

BERLIN—Though church and state are supposed to have been separated in Germany by the revolution, more than thirty blasphemy prosecutions are now pending before the German courts, according to the Communist Welt am Abend.

These prosecutions are directed in the main against artists, authors and political leaders, among the defendants are such well-known names as George Cross, Friedrich Wendel, Walze Hasenclever, Erwin von Kreilig, Franz Mazareel and others.

The sudden flood of blasphemy prosecutions follows the gradual decline of the treason prosecutions which reached their high point in 1921, shortly after the collapse of Army Minister Goener's attempt to build up a secret "Black" Reichswehr which afterwards turned against the republic and almost overthrew it in the fall of 1923.

16-POUND RABBIT BIG PET SHOW ATTRACTION

INDIANAPOLIS — A 16-pound rabbit is one of the chief attractions at the poultry and pet show exhibit conducted at Tomlinson Hall here.

The rabbit is drawing crowds largely because of its humense size.

The big bunny is the property of Mrs. Laura Sells of Emerson Gardens. She calls her pet "Nancy Jane."

"The rabbit is of the Gray Flemish Giant breed and is not yet a year old," Mrs. Sells said. "I have no idea how large it will get when it gets fully grown."

MANY HERE END COLDS WAY DOCTORS ADVISE

Find Hospital Tested Method Quick, Pleasant and Inexpensive for Home Use

A pleasant taste—almost instant relief—then the joy of waking up after a refreshing night's sleep without the misery and risk one takes by neglecting a cold during this pneumonia weather.

This, briefly, is the experience of numbers of people in Marion and vicinity. For doctors are advising home use of a hospital method that brings quick, sure relief.

Geo. M. Roebling, for example, had neglected his cold in the hope it would clear up itself. Instead, it got worse and congestion started spreading rapidly. Then he called his doctor, who advised Ayer's Pectoral, a compound of wild cherry, terpin-hydrate, etc., which is used in treating even the most extreme hospital cases. In an hour or so the cold began to clear up. The feverish, "achy" feeling disappeared and in another day or so, the doctor reports, there was no trace left of the cold.

Note: Other cases reported daily—all certified by attending physician.

Just a few pleasant spoonsful of Ayer's Pectoral now and you, too, will feel like a different person tomorrow. Endorsed by all druggists.

Business Opportunity

A national organization is looking for party in Marion to organize a new Company to open a Marion store. The kind of business plays important part in the commercial and industrial world and total sales volume for first year should be $100,000.00 showing net profit around 10%. Party selected should have reasonable amount capital to invest but we are mostly interested in man power as we can furnish all money necessary.

This ad we hope, reaches the eye of some man who is not satisfied with his present business or occupation and desires to make a change. If so, we offer an opportunity to get in a fine money-making retail business and to connect with a world-wide successful organization. This is a real opportunity for the right party and no promotion scheme. Address Business Opportunity in care of The Star.

Radio Fans and Autoists Listed Among Targets of Modern Comic Valentines

BITTER irony, deep sarcasm pointed humor or what have you several of the local stores can supply all this for as low as a price as two for one cent

Comic valentines have been sold for years and years, bearing cryptic remarks about all and sundry occupations and laborers and sharply berating those who don't work What ever you do or don't do there's a dirty dig for you at the comic valentine counter

Subjects Change

In bygone days gibes were pointed at the harness maker the horseshoer, the hatter the one-armed buggy driver the man who drove his horses too fast and so on ad infinitum Today the verses run from the plumber to the radio fan with a radio that includes flirts stenographers egoists, obnoxious persons and automobile owners

Below are produced three samples of the art thought up in the comic valentine factories and now offered for sale in Marion stores

The Dentist

'You ought to be a politician
For you have an awful pull
You empty your patients' pockets
To keep yours always full'

The Plumber

'You lazy, good for nothing loafer,
Your boss should furnish you a sofa,
The hardest job that you could take
Would be to keep yourself awake

The Stenographer

You were not hired to decorate
The place with paint and come in late
To earn your pay you would do better
If you would learn to write a letter

Remember when you chuckled in demoniacal glee to think how a verse of like ilk would 'burn somebody up' And then do you remember when that same somebody' sent you a return valentine twice as pointed and by faster mail?

Useful to Hostesses

A use to which many Marion party hostesses at this time of year put these is to order perhaps a hundred different kinds cut them into puzzles and then have the guests match them for places at the dinner table

Pretty decorated valentines bearing verses betokening everlasting friendship who can't stand a good joke but the "regular fellow who receives one of these 'slams' may be sure that he was on someone's mind at the time the purchase was made

Crude rude snappy, and terribly sentimental these little two for a penny sheets of paper pack more wallops per line than any $1 50 'To My Sweetheart On Valentine's Day' bit of lace and ribbon ever did

We mention this as of sufficient importance to justify at least one ad by itself—it is something that will appeal to all thoughtful, careful buyers.

Furniture and Rugs cost too much money to throw away in case you quickly get tired of, or something goes wrong with your purchases. You have to live with furniture practically all of your lifetime. Customers do not recommend a store to others unless they were sold the right kind of furniture, at the right kind of a price—unless they received the right kind of treatment at the store recommended.

Unless you have had all of this from your favorite store we would like to have an opportunity to prove to you that "You'll like trading at Schaffner's."

FEATURES OF THE NEW FORD

SERVICE

"IT HAS always been our belief that a sale does not complete the transaction between us and the buyer, but establishes a new obligation on us to see that his car gives him service. We are as much interested in his economical operation of the car as he is in our economical manufacture of it.

"For that reason we have installed a system of controlled service to take care of all Ford car needs in an economical and improved manner. We wish all users of Ford cars to know what they are entitled to in this respect, so that they may readily avail themselves of this service."

Henry Ford

Safety

ONE of the outstanding features of the new Ford is its mechanical, internal-expanding six-brake system.

This is unusually reliable and effective in action because the braking surfaces of all six brakes are fully enclosed. There is no possibility of mud, water, sand, road dirt or grease entering the brake mechanism or getting between the bands and drum and impairing brake performance.

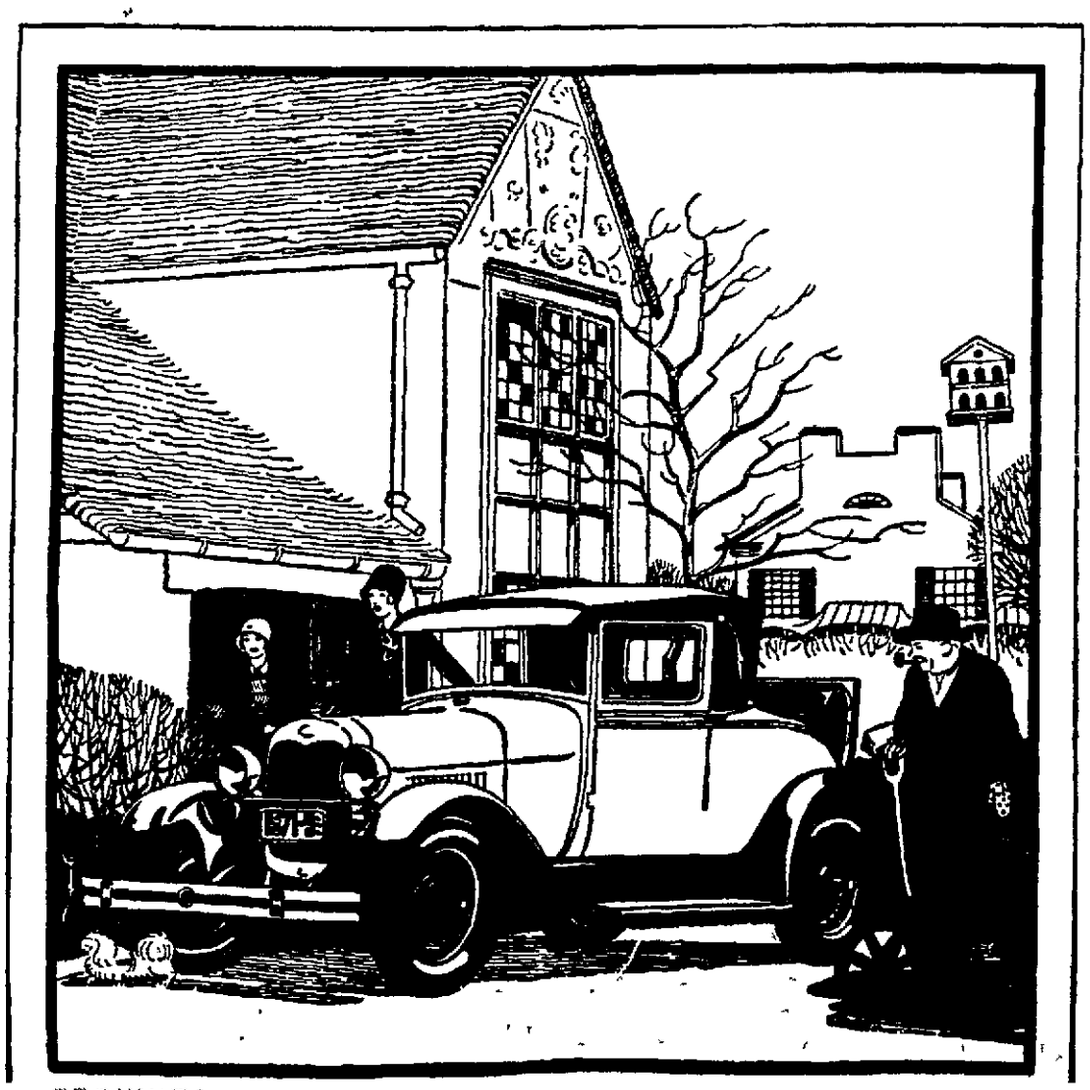
The use of steel forgings wherever there is a possibility of wear in the chassis of the car, the sturdy steel body construction, balance, ease of operation and control and a Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield are other important safety features.

Comfort

You have a feeling of mental comfort in driving the new Ford because you are sure of its mechanical reliability. No matter how long the trip or rough or devious the roadway, you know it will bring you safely, quickly to the journey's end.

Physically, too, you will feel fresh and relaxed in the new Ford because it is such a roomy, comfortable car. Seats are wide and deeply cushioned, with backs designed to conform to the curves of the body.

Even on comparatively rough stretches, there are no hard bumps or jolts, nor exaggerated bouncing up and down. The four Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers and transverse springs take up or absorb the force of every unevenness in the road before it reaches the body, frame and chassis of the car.



Reliability

The new Ford is reliable in performance because of its carefully planned simplicity of design and the enduring quality that has been built into every part.

Throughout, it has been made to give you many thousands of miles of pleasant, enjoyable motoring at a minimum of trouble and expense. From every part of the world come letters from Ford owners commenting on this reliability, and giving specific data on unusual performance.

Thousands of the new Fords have been driven more than 50,000 miles in the past year. Some, used night and day, have passed the 100,000-mile mark. There is no telling how far they will go. The average life of the Model T was seven years. We believe this new car will do better than that.

Economy

The new Ford is an economical car to own and drive because of the low cost of operation and up-keep. It averages more than 20 miles per gallon of gasoline and the cost of tires and oil is also low.

Low first cost, the security of a fair trade-in value, the availability of Ford dealers, and close supervision of service are additional reasons for the economy of the new Ford.

The cost of new parts is also low because of the established Ford policy of doing business at a small margin of profit.

Beauty

The new Ford is distinguished by its quiet simplicity of line and air of sturdy strength. Without being extreme, it has struck a new note in motor car designing. A particularly pleasing feature is a choice of beautiful colors in all body types without additional cost.

The upholstery is of woolen material, rich and luxurious, yet long-wearing. Fenders are heavy and gracefully contoured. Instrument panel—door handles—window lifts—interior trimming and finish—all reveal a quality of material and a careful workmanship unusual in a low-price car.

Ease of Control

Another outstanding feature of the new Ford is its ease of operation and control.

The steering wheel answers to the touch of a finger. Gears shift silently, smoothly. Brakes take hold quickly, firmly even on rain-swept pavements. Quick acceleration and alert speed are especially appreciated in traffic and emergencies. A space little longer than the car itself is all you need for parking.

All of these things simplify the mechanics of motoring and add a great deal to the joy and comfort of motoring. Particularly to a woman, they mean driving without strain or fatigue.

Smooth Speed

Everywhere you go, you note the alert, capable performance of the new Ford. You can judge its acceleration by the way it gets away in traffic. A smooth stretch on the open road gives a revealing measure of its speed. The way it climbs the hills in high is an indication of its abundant power.

The new Ford will do 55 to 65 miles an hour, which is probably faster than you will ever need to go. Far more important is the way it rolls along at 35 and 40 and 45. This is your average driving speed and you can maintain it smoothly, easily, comfortably for hours in the new Ford.

The senate public lands committee has approved a bill to make the famous Grand Teton mountain range to the south of Yellowstone park a national park. If that's the idea, it should be put through before some senator builds a summer home thereon and holds the plan up as a sort of a matter of senatorial privilege.

The Spanish press and public is rapping the plan to hold a "beauty" contest to select a candidate for "Miss Europe," to be sent over to enter a contest here, on the ground that the defeated entrants will suffer loss of prestige and the victor become unduly and unjustly vain. Spain must have been studying the results of the exhibits put on under the name of beauty contests over here.

To Arouse the Italian Spirit.

Premier Mussolini is not overlooking any opportunity to arouse and maintain the Italian spirit in the youth of Italian blood born in the French Alpes-Maritimes district, his latest plan to that end being to offer every such child under eighteen years of age a free yearly trip to the family home in Italy.

Children so born have but to apply to the nearest Italian consulate to get a free round trip to Italy, and in cases where parents haven't the means to meet such expense, they are fitted out with new clothes and provisioned for the trip.

Premier Mussolini unquestionably has made mistakes. He admits having made some. He doubtless will make more. His dictatorship may end in disaster for him, or for his country, or for both. But no matter what the future may have in store for his country and his dictatorship, this must be said for Benito Mussolini: among his many other great accomplishments, he has done more to arouse the Italian spirit and solidify the Italian people in the past five or six years than all other influences to that end combined in a half century.

Much has been uttered in criticism of Mussolini. He has been charged with the usurpation of authority, with the stifling of the press, with destroying Italian liberty. There is scarcely any public offense with which he has not been charged. But, no matter how he has been painted or may be in the future, so long as he follows his present course, it is going to be hard to convict him of a lack of patriotism.

Senatorial Privilege.

Perhaps the most revealing light on the true characters of those great champions of the rights of the public, the Hon. Thomas J. Walsh and the Hon. Burton K. Wheeler, senators from Montana, is had in their attitude toward the bill, which originated in the lower house of congress, the purpose of which is to enable the government to acquire the privately-owned lands in our natural parks and preserve them in their pristine beauty for posterity.

One of the most beautiful stands of big trees in the world, a pine forest covering a privately-owned tract of thirteen square miles in Yosemite park, is soon to fall before the woodman's ax because of the fact that these two senators place their private interests above those of the public and are able to block the legislation sought as a result of the very questionable senatorial policy under which the upper house of congress makes the interests of its members paramount to those of the citizenship of the country as a whole.

To save the natural beauty of the parks, a movement was inaugurated to raise a fund of $3,000,000—to which John D. Rockefeller, Jr., volunteered to pay $1,000,000—which, added to $3,000,000 to be provided by the government, is deemed sufficient to take over all the privately-owned lands in the national parks by purchase or condemnation proceedings.

The need of immediate action is due to the fact that the owners of the tract of thirteen square miles have been cutting timber in a tract adjacent to the Yosemite and propose to start cutting in the park April 1. In order to meet the conditions of the private contributions to aggregate $3,000,000, the purchase or condemnation of all privately-owned lands in the national parks was desired, and hence the house bill was made to apply to all of them.

Now it happens that Senator Walsh and Senator Wheeler own summer homes in Glacier National park, which they do not care to relinquish, and the former, backed by the latter, had the authorization to condemn stricken from the bill. The house refuses to accept the amendment, realizing that the government, being deprived of the power to fix the value of land in condemnation proceedings, private owners would exact exorbitant prices.

Senator Walsh told the senate that he had acquired a building site at the head of Lake McDonald prior to the creation of the park and had built thereon in 1910 a very comfortable summer home. "I may add," he said, "that since 1909 my family have been accustomed to spend their summer vacations in that neighborhood, living in the house at the head of the lake since it was constructed. It is proposed to take my house away from me, if the secretary of the interior feels so disposed, and burn down the house or turn it over to some one else."

Reminded that there was no thought of confiscating his property and that, in any event, he could not be dispossessed during his lifetime, the senator continued:

"In other words, they come in and condemn my nice home there, and after they have condemned it and acquired it, they they will give me a lease of it for the balance of my life, but my period of life is getting to be rather limited. I have a daughter who has been going there for thirty years, and is just as much attached to the place as I am. I have a couple of grandchildren who are delighted with the place, and we do not care to sell."

The senator then assured his fellow-senators that he did "not ask any special privilege," but he knew, and his fellow-senators knew, that that was precisely what he sought; that that was the purpose of his appeal. His fellow-senators must have known that the matter of amending the house bill never would have been considered had others than members of their own body held the fees to the Glacier park summer homes. But they were touched by the senator's appeal, and in their esteem for their fellow-senator, and in recognition of senate traditions, they voted to stand pat against the house program, for saving the thirteen square miles of big trees in Yosemite park.

The big Yosemite forest will be lost to posterity, but the very comfortable summer homes in Glacier National park will be preserved for the present owners and their descendants.

"Effort To Halt Flood of Aliens Doomed To Fail; Foreign Bloc Prepared To Beat Plan," reads a headline over a Washington story. If the headline may be taken to mean what it says, it's a mighty sad state of affairs for the United States.

A Hollywood wire says that Alma Rubens is suffering from a nervous breakdown. Reports from the Pacific coast have indicated that something was the matter with her, but our assumption was that it was merely an over-development of the Hollywood temperament.

The former ship's carpenter of the Leviathan, indicted on the charge of stealing valuables worth $130,000 from the mails aboard that vessel on one of its eastward trips last summer, turns out to be a notorious international mail thief. The plan of signing on a new crew on each round trip can hardly be held to be a glittering success.

There's little occasion for this flurry on the part of the press owing to the intimation of Senator Harrison that Mr. Hoover censored the news radio messages sent from the Maryland and the Utah. Patton talks wildly at times, if he can play a little politics by so doing.

Now the California legislature proposes to conduct a new investigation of the kidnaping of Aimee Semple McPherson. How much trouble Aimee might have saved herself had she started out with the frank statement that she was going to vary the monotony of life by going whoopee for a time.

Continual Sense of Fatigue.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Lots of folks drag themselves about, having no energy whatever. It isn't a good sign to be tired all the time. If that is the way you feel, it should be a warning to see your doctor to find out what is wrong.

Anything which is contrary to the general run of things must be viewed with suspicion. We are not built exactly alike and we have our own pet ideas about things. In the last analysis, however, we are governed by the same rules and should operate in about the same manner as the rest of mankind.

It isn't "natural" to be tired all the time. Of course it is a wholesome thing to have a good honest tired feeling at the end of the day, especially at the end of a day given to hard work. But it isn't natural to get up tired, and to begin the day as worn out as when you went to bed.

There are lots of reasons for that tired feeling. It may be due to late hours, late eating, or disturbed sleep. In short, it may be caused by lack of rest.

Napoleon got along with four or five hours of sleep, but you can't. You must have eight or nine in all probability, if you are to thrive. I can get along without food, but I must have sleep, if I am to do my work at all well.

Chronic constipation and chronic indigestion are two causes for a tired feeling. The absorption of the retained intestinal material poisons the system and produces a sense of fatigue.

Kidney and heart troubles, as well as liver and other disturbances, may destroy the sense of well-being which is so essential to good health. Failure of kidney elimination leaves in the system poisons which lower the vigor and destroy the usefulness. Heart weakness reduces the power and force of the circulation and results in loss of vitality.

Any one of these troubles may be the underlying cause for the sense of fatigue. The tired feeling will not disappear until the normal health is restored. It is sure to persist till you eat correctly.

Pus absorption is a common cause for lowered vitality and loss of energy. A bad tooth, an abscessed root for instance, or pussy gums, may be the center of your trouble.

Diseased tonsils, or pus infected nasal sinuses are other seats of pus infection. You have not done your full duty till throat and nose have been examined.

If you are tired all the time find out why it is. A frank talk with your family doctor is likely to put you in the way of good health and bodily vigor.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

E. M. Q—Has salt any antiseptic qualities?
2—Should the tonsils be removed if they are infected?
3—What causes small swellings to appear on the hands and arms when exposed to the sun?
A—Yes.
2—Yes, they should be removed, since they are apt to cause infection through the entire system.
3—This condition may be due to hives. This is sometimes due to food which causes irritation. Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for further particulars and repeat your question.

W. G. Q—What can be done for albumen in the kidneys and what causes this trouble?
A—May be due to a number of conditions—improper diet being the most important—overwork, excessive mental strain, worry and insufficient exercise are all factors. Careful diet and general care will bring about improvement. Have your doctor prescribe for you, since each patient must have specific attention.

N. Y. Q—What can I do for superfluous hair on the face?
A—Superfluous hair may be removed by the use of the electric needle. The work must be done by an expert skilled in this particular line. A good bleach if often helpful. For details send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

C. T. Q—I perspire very freely—the slightest exertion will bring on the trouble. I am sixteen years of age weighing 165 pounds and seem well and strong. What would you advise?
A—Where perspiration is excessive there is usually some nervous condition at the source of the trouble. Be sure there is no infection or other disturbance which may be causing the symptom. Some persons perspire more easily than others when there is no apparent cause.—Copyright, 1929, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Editorial Opinion.

FORTY-SIX WHITE CROSSES.

Since nineteen men and women were killed when a bus and an interurban car collided near Bellevue, it transpires that twenty-seven other persons have been killed during the last few years on the same highway within about a mile of the scene of the most recent accident.

Several investigations of the bus-car collision are in progress. The inquiries go on simultaneously, but purposes of the various investigators are quite different. The coroner and the prosecuting attorney of Huron county seek, as they should, to fix criminal and financial responsibility so that, if laws were violated, the guilty persons may be punished and their victims compensated.

The bus and interurban car companies hope, of course, to be able to show that neither they nor their employes are chargeable with negligence which resulted in appalling loss of life and considerable property damage.

Other investigations are under way, or have been proposed, by the state highway department and the Ohio legislature. These should be free from personal and selfish interests and, if vigorously and efficiently conducted, their results should be of greatest importance to the public.

Among the proposals for prevention of recurrence of such terrible accidents are the elimination of this particularly hazardous grade crossing which would have been abolished long ago except for a squabble over payment of $5,000 for land required for diverting the highway. Other tentative remedies are bills to require that buses carry two-man crews and that interurban cars be required to stop at the approach to every dangerous crossing. Each of these measures would involve some increased expenditure of money either by the taxpayers or by public utility companies which, in some way, would collect it from their patrons.

Details of the safety measures finally adopted must be worked out by engineers and traffic experts, but neither the expenditure of some money nor the loss of time by cars or buses at dangerous crossings must be permitted to stand in argument against abolishment of a death trap whose victims will be commemorated by forty-six little white crosses.—Toledo Blade.

A VOICE OUT OF THE PAST.

"War, mademoiselle, is an ethnological law which only the Divine Power can intervene." It is an old and broken man who speaks, leaning heavily on a cane and looking into space as though he lived wholly in the past. Broken in health, yes, and stripped of the pomp and power that once were his—but Wilhelm II. maintains intact the spirit that made Germany the arbiter of continental Europe for three-quarters of a century.

It is pointless to visualize this tired figure as a menace to civilization; indeed, it is rather absurd to lay upon his shoulders solely the blame for the horrible catastrophe of 1914-1918. For the Kaiser was but an instrument of the European international system. He remains a poignant embodiment of the ideals of the armed camp that was Europe in the years before the war. In complete seclusion he lives in the memories of his one-time greatness, and in his dreams of what might have been.

And his belief in the inevitable quality of war is the central idea of that age. Only as we recognize the wide distribution of that belief can we interpret intelligently the events leading up to that struggle to the death that broke upon the world in 1914. The former Kaiser's emergence from his decade of silence and his pronouncement of the divine nature of war may well lead us to a moment of introspection. Is not the fallacy that dominated the Kaiser's thinking still with us?—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Mc Intyre on Vacation.

BY O. O. M'INTYRE.

Paris, Jan. 28—Among myriad provocative mysteries of Paris, the greatest to me is how its incessant swarms of taxis keep going. They scurry and flit with their honk, squeak, honk, like a giant plague of crickets. Step to the curb, raise a hand, and they almost fly on you.

Down the middle of every boulevard they wait four abreast, and in crowded centers are a foot apart along the curbs. In the most deserted street only wait a minute and an empty taxi is bound to zip by. Sometimes they seem to pop out of the sewers. And some smell as though they had.

One may forget in time the city's architectural grandeur, spreading arches and exquisite gardens, but never the flood of tiny taxis. They are cheaper here than any place else on the globe, starting mostly at a franc, less than four cents, and progressing at penny taximeter leaps. And leaps is the word.

An afternoon shopping expedition with all the waits and a pleasant drive through the Bois will not, including a generous tip, exceed fifty francs, less than two dollars. With few exceptions, all are tiny, ancient, broken down and nailed up contraptions, rented by drivers from agencies at fifty francs a day—gasoline extra.

Mostly they are driven by insolent petty brigands—Russians with cold black eyes and dead-leaf faces, or typical tubby Frenchmen with peach-pink cheeks and eyebrows like feathers, resembling for all the world overgrown kewpies. All are old save for the occasional left-over American doughboy.

The Paris taxi driver is rarely a dangerous criminal. He serves the police somewhat as does our "stool pigeon," and in exchange is permitted his minor gypping. He is befuddled with red wine most of the time, and despite the hilariously cock-eyed traffic rules is seldom in an accident.

He must work, when he works, like fury, to pay for the rent of his cab, yet he is the most independent of all extremely independent workers of Paris. At his meal times you can not engage him. Then he is stoking up on garlic and cheese and swigging wine.

But France's best chuckle is still its telephones. The service annoys Americans most. They are accustomed to first-class service, while the British are accustomed to whatever they can get. Today, by actual clocking, an hour was required getting a number within a few blocks of the hotel. That gives you a sketchy idea.

Americans who go broke in Paris quite naturally hunt for the well-known expedient at home—the pawnshop. But there aren't any. The law against them is rigid. A private citizen may not even advance money on an article offered by another. All pawnshops are under municipal control—the Credit Municipal—and are open one day each month in the various arondissements. Then only one-tenth of the value of an article is offered.

Many years ago a London journalist pointed out a famous cocotte who nightly patrolled the grand boulevards—a one-legged slip of a girl weaving her way in and out the throngs gracefully on white-enameled crutches. Since then I have always watched for her, and not until my last visit was she missed. But last night in front of Le Matin I saw her again—now stout with an unhealthy bloat, but still pursuing the oldest calling.

Paris has little to offer in plays. The New York stage is far more important; exciting and alive. The best liked revue is called "Charles Lindbergh," and it smacks of our Follies of ten years ago, with the inevitable scenic view of Broadway at night. The youth who plays Lindbergh is such a close likeness the resemblance is startling and people often follow him on the boulevards.

Are We an Accident?

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

The planetesimal theory of the origin of the solar system has been said to support the idea that the human race may be unique in the universe. This idea, in turn, is supposed to furnish an explanation of the peculiar attention which all the great religious systems assume to be given to man and his affairs by the universal Creator.

The discoveries of astronomy have never been welcomed by religious bodies because such discoveries tended to widen man's conception of the extent of the habitable universe. Giordano Bruno was burned at the stake for teaching that there were many inhabited worlds among the stars. There seems to have been a kind of jealousy in this: if God had so many children to look out for, scattered through boundless space, those on the earth could no longer claim his exclusive care!

When, two or three centuries later, [illegible] of the enormous extent of the universe [illegible] become so overwhelming that theologians were forced to accept it, an attempt was made to reconcile this with the older conception by claiming that God governed the universe and the inhabitants of its many worlds from his seat on a throne situation in a great central orb. There was much emotion among devout followers of various sects when a German astronomer — unintentionally — helped this idea along by affirming that the great central orb was visible as the star Alcyone in the Pleiades. He meant that the star was a gravitational center, but many preachers made it a text for imposing, almost Miltonic sermons to thrilled congregations on the circling of worlds around suns and of suns in majestic procession around the throne of God—now discovered to human vision!

Now—if we really know anything definite on the subject—we know that the great physical center is not a single sun, or any body of any kind, but an innumerable mass of suns aggregated in and around the constellation Sagittarius. And—far more disconcerting to the theological view—we also know, apparently, that the universe itself is multiple, consisting not only of our own almost illimitable stellar system, but of untold thousands or perhaps millions, of others, lying at incomprehensible distances all around it, and each having its own gravitational center or close assembled suns.

In attempted contemplation of such vastness, even theological theories must stand aghast, paralyzed by the overwhelming immensity of the theme.

It is no wonder, then, that a return should be made to the original idea of a sole home for the favored creations of God's care, a unique world amidst the multitudinous orbs of the congregated universes, a one and only Eden and a one and only purgatory. So the planetesimal theory, by suggesting that the formation of a system of planets like ours is an occurence by its nature extremely rare, and indeed it has ever happened more than once in our stellar system, has a strong theological appeal.

The gist of this theory is that long ages ago another sun happened to pass so near our sun—which then was a lone body unattended by planets—that the tidal attraction between them caused our sun to burst forth in blazing fountains, the cooled, hardened and scattered substance of which afterward collected into the bodies called planets. The fate of that other sun is not pursued by the theory. Now, confessedly, open space is not wide and wandering suns, notwithstanding their enormous actual number, are so sparsely distributed, that the chances for a second such encounter are exceedingly small.

Hence, arises support for the belief, which no less a thinker than Alfred Russel Wallace entertained, that the earth and its wonderful habitant, man, are unique in the universe. God made the earth for man, says this peculiar faith, and God made man only for earth.

And still the great telescopes, growing yearly greater, sweep with triumphant mirrors and lenses the boundless realms of immensity, and discover ever more suns and systems of suns—universe upon universe without end.—Copyright, 1929, International Feature Service, Inc.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Let us not get the idea because we [illegible] of airplane accidents that amazing progress is not made in safe flying. As a matter of fact, flying is becoming increasingly safe. The reason, of course, that our attention is called to a number of accidents is that the use of the airplane is increasing at a tremendous rate. Thousands of people are now flying, as a matter of course, when but a few years ago the flyers could hardly be numbered in hundreds. In proportion to the number of machines in the air, the mishaps are far less frequent than formerly. The traveler by plane is probably as safe today as in almost any other common form of travel.

A Polish inventor by the name of Matska was consuming a bowl of soup—tomato soup. He noticed that every time he touched his teeth with his spoon he got an electric shock. He walked back to his laboratory and reflected. Few people reflect. Matska did. He experimented with types of food. He found what kind of food, containing acid, in contact with a silver spoon and his gold filled teeth, set up electric shocks. Now comes the discovery that does for sweet grape juice what pasteurization did for French wines long ago and for the world's milk supply. The pasteurization method kills bacteria by alternate heating and cooling. The new invention, by Matska, kills by electricity.

Most of us, receiving new impressions, forget them. We turn over and go to sleep. Now and then a man, receiving a new impression, walks around the block and reflects. These do the creative work of a world.

Occasionally the spotlight rests for a moment on a man who has never pulled his feet out of savagery. He suffers from perpetual immaturity. Much worse than this, it is the immaturity of the middle ages. Consider now a man who has actually been elected to the legislature of the good state of Nebraska. He proposes a law to destroy the freedom of the press. He is seized with the amazing idea that he knows better what is good for a republic than did George Washington, Benjamin Franklin, John Adams, and Alexander Hamilton, to say nothing of Lincoln and Roosevelt. These men knew the immeasurable value of a free and independent press. They saw to it—the earlier ones—that freedom of the press was guaranteed by the constitution. No thinking man has ever tried to take it out. As to what the nutty ones do or try to do—one never can tell.

The idea of censorship of the press on the part of state or federal government is one of the things we mean when we talk about "throwback to barbarism."

SALARY DISPUTE ON COUNCIL'S PROGRAM

Decision Expected Tonight in Controversy Over Clerks' Pay Boost

An ordinance calling for the increase of salary of three city officers is scheduled to come up for its second reading at the regular meeting of city council tonight.

The measure was given its first reading two weeks ago after council had voted on the motion to suspend the rules and pass the ordinance. The council was equally divided, four voting for and four against the salary increase proposal. It is expected that some decision will be reached tonight on the question settled one way or another.

Indications council will be in session long session tonight. City Clerk S H. Keller declared that 16 pieces of legislation would be up for approval or disapproval of the body.

The passage of the ordinances will provide for certain street improvements and the construction of various sidewalks throughout the city. Other business will be transacted.

ILLNESS FATAL TO MRS. J. C. WALTER

Succumbs at Home South of City. Funeral Arranged for Tuesday

Mrs. J. C. Walter, age 62, died at her home south of Marion on the Delaware road yesterday morning about 10 o'clock after 15 months of hardening of the arteries.

Mrs. Walter was born on June 3, 1867 in Marion county the daughter of James and Martha Berry. She married J. C. Walter in Marion on Feb. 20, 1890.

She was a member of the Calvary Methodist church of this city.

She is survived by her husband and two children, James Walter, and Mrs. Jean Johnson.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home with continued services at 2:30 o'clock in the Calvary church. The Rev. L. Ridebaugh will be in charge and burial will be made in Marion cemetery.

GEORGIA OFFICIALS HUNT FOR TEACHER, STUDENT

BLAKELEE, Ga., Jan. 28—Search for Mrs. M. M. Ellens, 35-year-old mother and school teacher, and Edward Chapman, 17, one of her pupils who have been missing for a week, was redoubled today after a warrant was issued against the woman charging her with kidnaping the boy.

The warrant was sworn out by the woman's husband, and the boy's father W. C. Chapman, who declared he believed the pair to be either in Akron, Ohio or Detroit. The teacher and the pupil were last seen a week ago driving toward Atlanta in the woman's automobile.

In a small town one is not so humble but that somebody knows his smallness or unworthiness.

reduced to cinders in the blaze which followed.

The security of fatal mishaps to the unsung heroes of the movie lots was regarded as surprising, in view of the risks taken by doubles and extras.

With the advent of great numbers of picture productions, whose locale is the air, this is generally conceded that accidents, involving doubles and extras, may increase, because of the great hazards.

Nevertheless, the accident which cost the life of Miss Wichart is the only one of its kind to be reported since the Johnson tragedy.

Recently there have been air accidents in connection with the filming of aviation pictures, which have been climaxed by narrow escapes.

Howard Hughes, director, has good reason to be thankful for the fact that he is alive. While directing a scene, about a year ago, he crashed to earth. The old war biplane in which he was riding was demolished, but Hughes escaped with only body bruises and cuts.

Al Wilson, world famous stunt flyer, is another double who still lives by virtue of the fact that his parachute did not fail to open. While piloting an old "Jenny" military plane last May, Al suddenly discovered that his propeller had dropped away. Although he was flying very low, his parachute opened quickly and he landed safely.

Victory, where the last rites will be held.

Dr. B. L. George will be in charge of the services assisted by the Rev. H. E. Williamson, pastor of the Oakland Evangelical church. Burial will be made in Mt. Victory cemetery.

Born in Mt. Victory

Dr. Lynch was born in Mt. Victory, on April 25, 1864, the son of Hezekiah and Levina Andrews Lynch. His first wife, Elizabeth Young Lynch, preceded him in death 21 years ago. He was married the second time on March 25, 1910 in Ridgeway to Mrs. Wilmina Frye.

Dr. Lynch was a member of Epworth M. E. church, Sojourners lodge of Masons, Marion lodge No. 32, B. P. O. Elks, Bird-McGinnis Post, American Legion, and the Mt. Victory lodge, Knights of Pythias.

He is survived by his widow, one daughter, Mrs. Dana Skidmore, of Lansing, Mich., a step-son, Everett Frye, of Marion and a half-sister, Mrs. Ida Wilgus, of West Mansfield.

SPEAKER REVIEWS BUNYAN'S CAREER

Local Ministers Hear Anniversary Tribute by Rev. L. J. Houghtaling

The Rev. Lester J. Houghtaling delivered an address on "The 300th Anniversary of John Bunyan's Life," before the Marion County Ministerial association this morning at 10 o'clock in the City library. The Rev. J. M. Fisher, director of Lee Street Presbyterian church, led in the devotionals.

L. Don Jones, past commander of Byrd-McGinnis Post, American Legion, explained the work of the legion and spoke of the legion publicity week, Feb. 4-9. The Rev. W. H. Howard and the Rev. G. A. Kanzler gave reports of the Pastors' convention at Columbus last week, followed by a discussion. A report on the Marion Council of Social Agencies was made by the Rev. H. E. Weckmueller.

Excerpts from the talk given by the Rev. Mr. Houghtaling are given below:

"John Bunyan is known to all the world as the author of 'Pilgrim's Progress,' a book which has been translated into more languages and has a larger circulation than any other book in the world except the Bible. It is known by English scholars as the greatest allegory that has ever been written in any language.

"Bunyan was born at Bedford, England, in November, 1628, and died in 1688. He was the son of poor parents and his early years were spent in comparative poverty. A tinner by trade, he traveled from house to house mending pots and pans.

"Without an education, and being an abominable speller, the man was a prolific writer, producing 60 books. He lived in the days of the Puritans and was himself a Dissenter. Bunyan was persecuted for preaching the Gospel and spent over 15 years in prison.

"The popularity of a book written in prison nearly three centuries ago is attributed to the fact that it is the result of a common human experience—a soul seeking peace with God.

"As Bunyan says of his book, 'It came from my heart, thence to my head and trickled down into my fingers.'"

At the meeting Monday morning, Feb. 4, Murray Powers, managing editor of The Star, will address the ministers.

BERT B. BUCKLEY GOES ON TRIAL

Charged with Offering Dry Official $300 Monthly for Raid "Tips"

After the jury was sworn, the court recessed.

Buckley's wife and daughter, Beth, were with him in the courtroom. Attorneys for the state treasurer were Robert Brumbaugh, Dayton, Henry A. Williams, Columbus, and Wellmore B. Turner, Dayton.

At the prosecutor's table were seated Haveth E. Mau, Cincinnati, Harry Abrams, Cincinnati, and W. B. Bartels, Columbus.

There are 10 counts in the indictment, eight of which charge bribery, one conspiracy and the last, an attempt to defraud the government.

Short Trial Seen

Buckley's daughter is about 23 years of age and very pretty. She was a visible comfort to her white-haired father.

Indication that the trial will last only four days was given when Judge Hough set other trials for Friday morning.

Mau began his opening statement to the jury by relating counts in the indictment, which charge bribery and conspiracy. He made mention of Schrimpers and Sperber's pleas of guilty. Adolph "Dolly" Gruber, a co-conspirator who was not indicted because of evidence furnished to the government, also will testify in the case, Mau declared.

SETTLEMENT MADE

COLUMBUS, Jan. 28—The $250,000 damage suit which was brought by Dr. Eugene F. McCampbell against Dr. James F. Baldwin, charging libel, was settled out of court, Judge John R. King announced this morning when his common pleas court was reconvened.

The amount of the settlement was not divulged. Everyone connected with it had pledged secrecy.

Dr. McCampbell, former dean of the Ohio State medical college, charged that he lost his position due to a letter which Dr. Baldwin wrote to the board of trustees.

WORK SUSPENDED

Construction of Ququa Ditch Delayed Temporarily

For the past two weeks work on the Ququa ditch has been suspended by the contractor, according to announcement today from the office of County Surveyor Cecil R. Leavens. Officials in the surveyor's office estimate that two or three weeks will be required to complete the open work of the ditch.

As yet there has been no excavations made for the tiled section of the ditch, beginning near the land of the Marion Cemetery association and the Harding Memorial association.

Completion of the ditch is expected to relieve high water conditions which prevailed over a section of the Vernon Heights blvd. twice in less than a week.

marriage aroused comment all over the world.

THE former maharajah is believed to be fabulously wealthy. He abdicated in favor of his son, Prince Yeshwant, in February, 1925 after the British government had ordered the disarming of his troops.

In January, 1925, he gained considerable notoriety through the attack of Mumtaz Begum, a dancer, by nine Indians. Nine Indore officials were arrested in connection with the attack and the girl's statement that she had been a dancer in his palace implicated the former maharajah.

THE former maharajah and his legal advisors were faced with the problem of naming the child before Wednesday.

The French law requires that the full name of every child must be registered within 48 hours after birth. According to the Hindu faith, children are named 13 days after birth.

The Indore prince sent his caretaker to the local city hall to ask for sufficient time to enable the former to conform to the religious rites of his forefathers. He was informed that the naming must occur not later than Wednesday. A day's grace was allowed because the child was born late Saturday night.

Later, however, Vishnu Kirnddikar, the Hindu priest who will officiate at the naming ceremony, made the following statement to International News Service:

"The name of the child will be deposited in Paris by Wednesday but that won't interefere with the thirteenth day ceremony."

MARION VETERAN AWARDED CROSS

Charles L. Landon Granted Official Recognition 10 Years After Death

Although more than 10 years have passed since Charles L. Landon gave his life in an effort to save a wounded buddy in the last German offensive during the World war, his heroism will not go unrewarded.

Announcement has been made at the war department in Washington that a posthumous award of the distinguished service cross is to be made to Landon, a former Marion man who enlisted with Company D, 166th infantry, of the 42nd division. A number of Landon's relatives live in Marion and vicinity.

Landon, a stretcher bearer, lost his life when he attempted to aid a wounded soldier of Company D, according to George T. Geran, a former major in the 166th infantry.

Landon died July 15, 1918, the day following the start of the last German offensive of the war.

GUARDIAN DENIES CONVERTING FUNDS

A. H. Monahan Files Answer in Suit Over Mary Jane Miller Estate

Denying that he converted any funds entrusted to him as guardian for Mary Jane Miller to his own purposes, A. H. Monahan has filed answer in common pleas court to the suit brought against him by J. W. Jacobs as executor of Mrs. Miller's estate. According to the petition filed by Jacoby, Monahan holds more than $2,300 as guardian, which he refuses to turn over to the executor.

The Massachusetts Bonding Co., which is also named defendant in the suit brought by Jacoby, has filed a demurrer to the petition claiming that it does not contain sufficient facts to warrant court action. The demurrer was filed after the bonding company filed a petition in common pleas court to have the court set aside the transfer of real estate from Monahan to Ruth Alice Monahan.

Monahan is represented in the court action by the law of firm Carhart & Warner.

Asks Foreclosure

The Marion Building, Savings & Loan Co. has filed foreclosure suit in common pleas court against James F. Kemper. The loan company asks foreclosure of a mortgage on which there is claimed to be due $7,151.15. The petition asks for the marshalling of the liens of the Credit Loan & Discount Co., Lucy L. Knerseler, Mrs. Blanche Stansell, George W. Ackley, W. M. Schaaf, Hugh R. Schaaf, and Zenas B. McLean. Attorneys W. N. Harder represents the plaintiff.

Files Answer

Edna C. Williams has filed answer in common pleas court to the cross petition of Harold C. Williams in the foreclosure suit brought against Edna and Harold Williams by the Home Building, Savings & Loan Co. In her answer Edna Williams asks that in case the property involved is sold that she be given one half the proceeds after all encumberances are removed.

The law firm of Mouser, Young & Mouser represents Edna Williams.

Denies Responsibility

William L. Price has filed answer to a $10,193 damage suit brought against him in common pleas court by Elizabeth Sandhouer. In her petition the plaintiff charges that she was severely injured when struck by Price's car on May st., June 4, 1928. Price denies responsibility for the accident. He is represented by the law firm of Carhart & Warner.

Asks Dismissal

Carrie H. Fry has filed an answer and cross petition in common pleas court to the divorce suit brought against her by Olus F. Fry. The defendant asks dismissal of the plaintiff's petition and for divorce and alimony. She is represented by the law firm of Carhart & Warner.

Licenses Issued

Marriage licenses have been issued in probate court to the following:

Rush H. Hickman, 47, factory employe, and Josephine Price, 52, housekeeper, both of Marion.

Herman E. Hinte, 22, electric company employe, and Opal Henry, 16, both of Marion.

Joseph M. Snyder, 25, clerk, and Frances Crowley, 20, bookkeeper, both of Marion.

Birthday Celebration of Former Kaiser Nears End; Hermine Rift is Denied

Wilhelm's Wife Recovering from Illness; Count Bentinck Will Give Dinner for 30 Guests at Amoerengon Castle Tuesday Night; Chimes Are Named

DOORN, Holland, Jan. 28 — A spokesman for Doorn castle—the home of the exiled former German kaiser—today characterized as "nonsense" the reports that differences had arisen between Princess Hermine, wife of Wilhelm, and members of the Hohenzollern family over her rank.

Princess Hermine, who took sick on Saturday, on the eve of the ex-kaiser's seventieth birthday, was reported better today. It was explained that she had a slight attack of grippe, but that the fever had disappeared today. The other patients who caught cold on the trip to Doorn were improving also.

The birthday celebration which evoked much enthusiasm from monarchist militarist circles in Germany, will come to an end tomorrow although many of the guests already have left Doorn.

Count Bentinck, friend of Wilhelm, will entertain the former kaiser and 30 other guests at a dinner at his Amoerengon castle tomorrow night. That is the concluding event in the 10 days' festivities.

Following the birthday dinner at Doorn castle when the guests raised their champagne glasses to the toast:—

"Your imperial majesty's health and happiness," proposed by the former king of Saxony. The guests departed at 11 o'clock last night. The ex-kaiser retired at 11:30.

Wilhelm has named five of the chime bells in the Doorn castle tower, 'Kaiserin, Hohenzollern, Loyalty, Home and Brandenburg.'

These chimes were a birthday present from the former emperor's sons.

Among the family guests at Doorn castle were the ex-kaiser's five sons (including the former crown prince), his daughter and 10 grandchildren.

WARDEN IMPOUNDS 20 UNTAGGED DOGS

Drive Against Canines Not Licensed Launched by Rhoads

The 1929 drive against unlicensed dogs got under way last week when Dale Rhoads, county dog warden, impounded 20 untagged canines. Ten were destroyed.

According to County Auditor Earl E. Thomas, several hundred dogs in the county are without tags. The warden has threatened to arrest all dog owners whose dogs are found without tags.

Only one sheep loss was reported last week. J. J. Woltinger, of Waldo township, suffered a loss of $11 when dogs killed one sheep in his flock.

A report of the warden's activities last week was made to the board of county commissioners last Saturday afternoon.

FIVE LEGION POSTS REPRESENTED HERE

"Know the Legion Week" Discussed at District Conference

Five American Legion posts were represented Sunday at the meeting of the northern section of the Central Ohio district of the legion at the local Dugout, South High st.

The meeting convened at 10 o'clock in charge of Carl F. Eberf, of Marion, district chairman. The morning session was taken up with the discussion of post problems and their solution.

In the afternoon plans were discussed for observance of "Know the Legion Week," which opens next Sunday. Plans were also made for the membership drive which will open within the next few days.

Herbal Medicine Being Used With Amazing Results by Thousands—Vital Organs Helped—Entire System Strengthened in Many Cases.

Before Dr. French's Nu-Erb was generally known throughout the country the prescription, which today is known as "Nu-Erb" had been used with amazing success in the private practice of this eminent physician, who spent many years of research work before the formula was perfected. It helps the stomach, live, kidneys and bowels to do their work properly and eliminates poisonous waste matter from the system.

Thousands of men and women have obtained surprising results through the use of this herbal medicine. Mr. A. A. Manchester, Orangeville, Ohio, says:

"It is the best medicine I have ever used. My stomach was so out of order that everything I ate soured and formed a gas which kept me in constant misery. My liver was sluggish, kidneys weak and my bowels very irregular.

"All that has changed since using Nu-Erb. I eat what I like now and am never troubled after. My kidneys show no signs of weakness and it has regulated my liver and bowels so that I am no longer troubled with constipation. It also brought relief to rheumatism of the joints from which I suffered for the last ten or twelve years."

Each one of the twelve herbs and roots from which Nu-Erb is compounded has a beneficial effect on the human system. That is why Nu-Erb is so thorough in relieving so many of the common ills of mankind when ordinary remedies would hopelessly fail.

THE NU-ERB MAN

Stumpf & Sons Pharmacy is the only place in Marion where Nu-Erb may be purchased. Go see the Nu-Erb man now making his headquarters there and let him explain to you more fully the merits of this remarkable medicine.

SHOW SHOPPING With JACK or JILL

BY JILL

"PIGS," presented by the Myrtyl Ross players. Story by Anne Morris and Patterson McNutt and directed by Myrtyl Ross. Through this week at the Grand.

ALMA COBLE and Billy Dale as juvenile leads, romp away with the show in their clever impersonations of youthful financiers and near blackmailers. They are supported equally well by the remaining members of the company in one of the most entertaining shows presented during their run here.

The story is woven around Thomas Atkins, Sr., (Jack Gordon,) a lawyer, his wife, Ellen Atkins, (Myrtyl Ross,) his two sons, Spencer and Junior, (Dick Dickinson and Billy Dale,) his mother in law, Grandma Spencer, (Mae Kirby,) his brother-in-law, Hector Spencer, (Ernest Sharpsteen,) Mildred Cushing, (Alma Coble,) Lenore Hastings, (Mildred Lee,) Smith Hastings, (Frank Dean,) and Dr. Springer, (Manfred Gross.)

The Atkins reside in Medbury, Ind., where the lawyer's business is none too prosperous. The family hopes seem to center in the older son, much to the discomfort of Junior who aspires to be a veterinary and gets little encouragement in his ambition. Alma Coble who believes in gaining her end by hook or crook, finds plenty to keep her victims eating out of her hand, and Mac Kirby as grandma finds her greatest concern in looking after her son and keeping an eye on what is going on in the household. Other members of the cast sit in admirably and take their turn in making the production what bids fair to be one of the best attractions of the season.

MYRTYL ROSS carries one back a few years with her gowns and hairdress in the role of Junior's mother. Ernest Sharpsteen makes you look once and then put on the blinders in his stepping out suit which he wears in the last scene.

SOME real honest to goodness pigs are the center of attraction in a short scene and are apparently as much at home on the stage as in the sty.

The raid to pick up young hoodlums wherever found, inaugurated by the Chicago police, Thursday night, is to continue over Sunday. Can it be that the Windy City is really attempting to rescue itself from the criminal element which has ruled it so long?

George Remus has compromised the government liens against him and been discharged from all tax liens, which reminds us that the present is an ideal time for the press to forget George Remus.

On the witness stand in Elmira, New York, in the manslaughter trial growing out of the Hanson killing, the assistant chief intelligence officer of the coast guard testified that when guardsmen shoot and kill motorists it's "unfortunate." There's no question but what there will be unanimous agreement with that statement.

It has been found that the "pod-eyes" which will have to stand a pull of 120,000 pounds when employed in the raising of a sunken submarine, will stand a pull of 530,000. That looks like an adequate margin of safety.

George Goddard, the former London police sergeant, testified on the stand in the case of the "Night Club Queen," which is the name given a woman lawbreaker over there, that he made the fortune he was discovered to possess by betting. If George told the truth he's easily the eighth wonder of the world.

The senate public lands committee has approved a bill to make the famous Grand Teton mountain range to the south of Yellowstone park a national park. If that's the idea, it should be put through before some senator builds a summer home thereon and holds the plan up as a sort of a matter of senatorial privilege.

The Spanish press and public is rapping the plan to hold a "beauty" contest to select a candidate for "Miss Europe," to be sent over to enter a contest here, on the ground that the defeated entrants will suffer loss of prestige and the victor become unduly and unjustly vain. Spain must have been studying the results of the exhibits put on under the name of beauty contests over here.

To Arouse the Italian Spirit.

Premier Mussolini is not overlooking any opportunity to arouse and maintain the Italian spirit in the youth of Italian blood born in the French Alpes-Maritimes district, his latest plan to that end being to offer every such child under eighteen years of age a free yearly trip to the family home in Italy.

Children so born have but to apply to the nearest Italian consulate to get a free round trip to Italy, and in cases where parents haven't the means to meet such expense, they are fitted out with new clothes and provisioned for the trip.

Premier Mussolini unquestionably has made mistakes. He admits having made some. He doubtless will make more. His dictatorship may end in disaster for him, or for his country, or for both. But no matter what the future may have in store for his country and his dictatorship, this must be said for Benito Mussolini: among his many other great accomplishments, he has done more to arouse the Italian spirit and solidify the Italian people in the past five or six years than all other influences to that end combined in a half century.

Much has been uttered in criticism of Mussolini. He has been charged with the usurpation of authority, with the stifling of the press, with destroying Italian liberty. There is scarcely any public offense with which he has not been charged. But, no matter how he has been painted or may be in the future, so long as he follows his present course, it is going to be hard to convict him of a lack of patriotism.

Senatorial Privilege.

Perhaps the most revealing light on the true characters of those great champions of the rights of the public, the Hon. Thomas J. Walsh and the Hon. Burton K. Wheeler, senators from Montana, is had in their attitude toward the bill, which originated in the lower house to congress, the purpose of which is to enable the government to acquire the privately-owned lands in our natural parks and preserve them in their pristine beauty for posterity.

One of the most beautiful stands of big trees in the world, a pine forest covering a privately-owned tract of thirteen square miles in Yosemite park, is soon to fall before the woodman's ax because of the fact that these two senators place their private interests above those of the public and are able to block the legislation sought as a result of the very questionable senatorial policy under which the upper house of congress makes the interests of its members paramount to those of the citizenship of the country as a whole.

To save the natural beauty of the parks, a movement was inaugurated to raise a fund of $3,000,000—to which John D. Rockefeller, Jr., volunteered to pay $1,000,000—which, added to $3,000,000 to be provided by the government, is deemed sufficient to take over all the privately-owned lands in the national parks by purchase or condemnation proceedings.

The need of immediate action is due to the fact that the owners of the tract of thirteen square miles have been cutting timber in a tract adjacent to the Yosemite and propose to start cutting in the park April 1. In order to meet the conditions of the private contributions to aggregate $3,000,000, the purchase or condemnation of all privately-owned lands in the national parks was desired, and hence the house bill was made to apply to all of them.

Now it happens that Senator Walsh and Senator Wheeler own summer homes in Glacier National park, which they do not care to relinquish, and the former, backed by the latter, had the authorization to condemn stricken from the bill. The house refuses to accept the amendment, realizing that the government, being deprived of the power to fix the value of land in condemnation *proceedings, private owners would exact ex*orbitant prices.

Senator Walsh told the senate that he had acquired a building site at the head of Lake McDonald prior to the creation of the park and had built thereon in 1910 a very comfortable summer home. "I may add," he said, "that since 1900 my family have been accustomed to spend their summer vacations in that neighborhood, living in the house at the head of the lake since it was constructed. It is proposed to take my house away from me, if the secretary of the interior feels so disposed, and burn down the house or turn it over to some one else."

Reminded that there was no thought of condemning his property and that, in any event, he could not be dispossessed during his lifetime, the senator continued:

"In other words, they come in and condemn my nice home there, and after they have condemned it and acquired it, they they will give me a lease of it for the balance of my life, but my period of life is getting to be rather limited. I have a daughter who has been going there for thirty years, and is just as much attached to the place as I am. I have a couple of grandchildren who are delighted with the place, and we do not care to sell."

The senator then assured his fellow senators that he did "not ask any special privilege," but he knew, and his fellow-senators knew, that that was precisely what he sought; that that was the purpose of his appeal. His fellow-senators must have known that the matter of amending the house bill never would have been considered had others than members of their own body held the fees to the Glacier park summer homes. But they were touched by the senator's appeal, and in their esteem for their fellow-senator, and in recognition of senate traditions, they voted to stand pat against the house program, for saving the thirteen square miles of big trees in Yosemite park.

The big Yosemite forest will be lost to posterity, but the very comfortable summer homes in Glacier National park will be preserved for the present owners and their descendants.

"Effort To Halt Flood of Aliens Doomed To Fail, Foreign Bloc Prepared To Beat Plan," reads a headline over a Washington story. If the headline may be taken to mean what it says, it's a mighty sad state of affairs for the United States.

A Hollywood wire says that Alma Rubens is suffering from a nervous breakdown. Reports from the Pacific coast have indicated that something was the matter with her, but our assumption was that it was merely an over-development of the Hollywood temperament.

The former ship's carpenter of the Leviathan, indicted on the charge of stealing valuables worth $130,000 from the mails aboard that vessel on one of its eastward trips last summer, turns out to be a notorious international mail thief. There's little occasion for this flurry on the part of the press owing to the intimation of Senator Harrison that Mr. Hoover censored the news radio messages sent from the Maryland and the Utah. Patton talks wildly at times, if he can play a little politics by so doing.

TWICE OUTWITS THE SEA.

Continual Sense of Fatigue.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Lots of folks drag themselves about, having no energy whatever. It isn't a good sign to be tired all the time. If that is the way you feel, it should be a warning to see your doctor to find out what is wrong.

Anything which is contrary to the general run of things must be viewed with suspicion. We are not built exactly alike and we have our own pet ideas about things. In the last analysis, however, we are governed by the same rules and should operate in about the same manner as the rest of mankind.

It isn't "natural" to be tired all the time. Of course it is a wholesome thing to have a good honest tired feeling at the end of the day, especially at the end of a day given to hard work. But it isn't natural to get up tired, and to begin the day as worn out as when you went to bed.

There are lots of reasons for that tired feeling. It may be due to late hours, late eating, or disturbed sleep. In short, it may be caused by lack of rest.

Napoleon got along with four or five hours of sleep, but you can't. You must have eight or nine in all probability, if you are to thrive. I can get along without food, but I must have sleep, if I am to do my work at all well.

Chronic constipation and chronic indigestion are two causes for a tired feeling. The absorption of the retained intestinal material poisons the system and produces a sense of fatigue.

Kidney and heart troubles, as well as liver and other disturbances, may destroy the sense of well-being which is so essential to good health. Failure of kidney elimination leaves in the system poisons which lower the vigor and destroy the usefulness. Heart weakness reduces the power and force of the circulation and results in loss of vitality.

Any one of these troubles may be the underlying cause for the sense of fatigue. The tired feeling will not disappear until the normal health is restored. It is sure to persist till you eat correctly.

Pus absorption is a common cause for lowered vitality and loss of energy. A bad tooth, an abscessed tooth for instance, or pussy gums, may be the center of your trouble.

Diseased tonsils, or pus infected nasal sinuses are other seats of pus infection. You have not done your full duty till throat and nose have been examined.

If you are tired all the time find out why it is. A frank talk with your family doctor is likely to put you in the way of good health and bodily vigor.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

E. M. Q—Has salt any antiseptic qualities?

2—Should the tonsils be removed if they are infected?

3—What causes small swellings to appear on the hands and arms when exposed to the sun?

A—Yes.

2—Yes, they should be removed, since they are apt to cause infection through the entire system.

3—This condition may be due to hives. This is sometimes due to food which causes irritation. Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for further particulars and repeat your question.

W. G. Q—What can be done for albumen in the kidneys and what causes this trouble?

A—May be due to a number of conditions—improper diet being the most important—overwork, excessive mental strain, worry and insufficient exercise are all factors. Careful diet and general care will bring about improvement. Have your doctor prescribe for you, since each patient must have special attention.

N. Y. Q—What can I do for superfluous hair on the face?

A—Superfluous hair may be removed by the use of the electric needle. The work must be done by an expert skilled in this particular line. A good bleach is often helpful. For details send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

C. T. Q—I perspire very freely—the slightest exertion will bring on the trouble. I am sixteen years of age weighing 165 pounds and seem well and strong. What would you advise?

A—Where perspiration is excessive there is usually some nervous condition at the source of the trouble. Be sure there is no infection or other disturbance which may be causing the symptom. Some persons perspire more easily than others when there is no apparent cause.—Copyright, 1929, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Editorial Opinion.

FORTY-SIX WHITE CROSSES.

Since nineteen men and women were killed when a bus and an interurban car collided near Bellevue, it transpires that twenty-seven other persons have been killed during the last few years on the same highway within about a mile of the scene of the most recent accident.

Several investigations of the bus-car collision are in progress. The inquiries go on simultaneously, but purposes of the various investigators are quite different. The coroner and the prosecuting attorney of Huron county seek, as they should, to fix criminal and financial responsibility so that, if laws were violated, the guilty persons may be punished and their victims compensated.

The bus and interurban car companies hope, of course, to be able to show that neither they nor their employes are chargeable with negligence which resulted in appalling loss of life and considerable property damage.

Other investigations are under way, or have been proposed, by the state highway department and the Ohio legislature. These should be free from personal and selfish interests and, if vigorously and efficiently conducted, their results should be of greatest importance to the public.

Among the proposals for prevention of recurrence of such terrible accidents are the elimination of this particularly hazardous grade crossing which would have been abolished long ago except for a squabble over payment of $5,000 for land required for diverting the highway. Other tentative remedies are bills to require that busses carry two man crews and that interurban cars be required to stop at the approach to every dangerous crossing. Each of these measures would involve some increased expenditure of money either by the taxpayers or by public utility companies which, in some way, would collect it from their patrons.

Details of the safety measures finally adopted must be worked out by engineers and traffic experts, but neither the expenditure of some money nor the loss of time by cars or busses at dangerous crossings must be permitted to stand in argument against abolishment of a death trap whose victims will be commemorated by forty-six little white crosses.—Toledo Blade.

A VOICE OUT OF THE PAST.

"War, mademoiselle, is an ethnological law which only the Divine Power can intervene." It is an old and broken man who speaks, leaning heavily on a cane and looking into space as though he lived wholly in the past. Broken in health, yes, and stripped of the pomp and power that once were his—but Wilhelm II. maintains intact the spirit that made Germany the arbiter of continental Europe for three-quarters of a century.

It is pointless to visualize this tired figure as a menace to civilization; indeed, it is rather absurd to lay upon his shoulders solely the blame for the horrible catastrophe of 1914-1918. For the Kaiser was but an instrument of the European international system. He remains a poignant embodiment of the ideals of the armed camp that was Europe in the years before the war. In complete seclusion he lives in the memories of his one-time greatness, and in his dreams of what might have been.

And his belief in the inevitable quality of war is the central idea of that age. Only as we recognize the wide distribution of that belief can we interpret intelligently the events leading up to that struggle to the death that broke upon the world in 1914. The former Kaiser's emergence from his decade of silence and his pronouncement of the divine nature of war may well lead us to a moment of introspection. Is not the fallacy that dominated the Kaiser's thinking still with us?—Cincinnati Enquirer.

McIntyre on Vacation.

BY O. O. MCINTYRE.

Paris, Jan. 28—Among myriad provocative mysteries of Paris, the greatest to me is how its incessant swarms of taxis keep going. They scurry and flit with their hoot, squeak, honk, like a giant plague of crickets. Step to the curb, raise a hand, and they almost fly on you.

Down the middle of every boulevard they wait four abreast, and in crowded centers are a foot apart along the curbs. In the most deserted street only wait a minute and an empty taxi is bound to zip by. Sometimes they seem to pop out of the sewers. And some smell as though they had.

One may forget in time the city's architectural grandeur, spreading arches and exquisite gardens, but never the flood of tiny taxis. They are cheaper here than any place else on the globe, starting mostly at a franc, less than four cents, and progressing at penny taximeter leaps. And leaps is the word.

An afternoon shopping expedition with all the waits and a pleasant drive through the Bois will not, including a generous tip, exceed fifty francs, less than two dollars. With few exceptions, all are tiny, ancient, broken down and nailed up contraptions, rented by drivers from agencies at fifty francs a day—gasoline extra.

Mostly they are driven by insolent petty brigands—Russians with cold black eyes and dead-leaf faces, or typical tubby Frenchmen with peach-pink cheeks and eyebrows like feathers, resembling for all the world overgrown Kewpies. All are old save for the occasional left-over American doughboy.

The Paris taxi driver is rarely a dangerous criminal. He serves the police somewhat as does our "stool pigeon," and in exchange is permitted his minor gypping. He is befuddled with red wine most of the time, and despite the hilariously cock-eyed traffic rules is seldom in an accident.

He must work, when he works, like fury, to pay for the rent of his cab, yet he is the most independent of all extremely independent workers of Paris. At his meal times you can not engage him. Then he is stoking up on garlic and cheese and swigging wine.

But France's best chuckle is still its telephones. The service annoys Americans most. They are accustomed to first-class service, while the British are accustomed to whatever they can get. Today, by actual clocking, an hour was required getting a number within a few blocks of the hotel. That gives you a sketchy idea.

Americans who go broke in Paris quite naturally hunt for the well-known expedient at home—the pawnshop. But there aren't any. The law against them is rigid. A private citizen may not even advance money on an article offered by another. All pawnshops are under municipal control—the Credit Municipal—and are open one day each month in the various arondissements. Then only one-tenth of the value of an article is offered.

Many years ago a London journalist pointed out a famous cocotte who nightly patrolled the grand boulevards—a one-legged slip of a girl weaving her way in and out the throngs gracefully on white-enameled crutches. Since then I have always watched for her, and not until my last visit was she missed. But last night in front of Le Matin I saw her again—now stout with an unhealthy bloat, but still pursuing the oldest calling.

Paris has little to offer in plays. The New York stage is far more important, exciting and alive. The best liked revue is called "Charles Lindbergh," and it smacks of our Follies of ten years ago, with the inevitable scenic view of Broadway at night. The youth who plays Lindbergh is such a close likeness the resemblance is startling and people often follow him on the boulevards.

Are We an Accident?

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

The planetesimal theory of the origin of the solar system has been said to support the idea that the human race may be unique in the universe. This idea, in turn, is supposed to furnish an explanation of the peculiar attention which all the great religious systems assume to be given to man and his affairs by the universal Creator.

The discoveries of astronomy have never been welcomed by religious bodies in so far as such discoveries tended to widen man's conception of the extent of the habitable universe. Giordano Bruno was burned at the stake for teaching that there were many inhabited worlds among the stars. There seems to have been a kind of jealousy in this. God had so many children to look out for, scattered through boundless space, that the earth could no longer claim his exclusive care!

When, two or three centuries later, proof of the enormous extent of the universe had become so overwhelming that theologians were forced to accept it, an attempt was made to reconcile this with the older conceptions by claiming that God governed the universe and the inhabitants of its many worlds from his seat on a throne situation in a great central orb. There was much emotion among devout followers of various sects when a German astronomer — unintentionally — helped this idea along by affirming that the great central orb was visible as the star Alcyone in the Pleiades. He meant that the star was a gravitational center, but many preachers made it a text for imposing, almost Milton sermons to thrilled congregations on the circling of worlds around suns and of suns in majestic procession around the throne of God—now discovered to human vision!

Now—if we really know anything definite on the subject—we know that the great physical center is not a single sun, or any star of any kind, but an innumerable mass of stars aggregated in and around the constellation Sagittarius. And—far more disconcerting from the theological view—we also know, apparently, that the universe itself is multiple, consisting not only of our own almost illimitable stellar system, but of untold thousands or perhaps millions, of others, lying at incomprehensible distances all around it, each having its own gravitational center of close assembled suns.

In attempted contemplation of such vastness, even theological theories must stand aghast, paralyzed by the overwhelming immensity of the theme.

It is no wonder, then, that a return should be made to the original idea of a sole home for the favored creations of God's care, a unique world amidst the multitudinous orbs of the congregated universes, a one and only Eden and a one and only purgatory. So the planetesimal theory, by suggesting that the formation of a system of planets like ours is an occurence by its nature extremely rare, if indeed it has ever happened more than once in our stellar system, has a strong theological appeal.

The gist of this theory is that long ago another sun happened to pass so near to our sun—which then was a lone body not attended by planets—that the tidal attraction between them caused our sun to burst forth in blazing fountains, the cooled, hardened and scattered substance of which afterward collected into the bodies called planets. The fate of that other sun is not pursued by the theory. Now, confessedly, open space is so wide and wandering suns, notwithstanding their enormous actual number, are so sparsely distributed, that the chances for a second such encounter are exceedingly small.

Hence, arises support for the belief, which no less a thinker than Alfred Russel Wallace entertained, that the earth and its wonderful inhabitant, man, are unique in the universe. God made the earth for man, says this peculiar faith, and God made man only for earth.

And still the great telescopes, growing yearly greater, sweep with triumphant mirrors and lenses the boundless realms of immensity, and discover ever more suns and systems of suns—universe upon universe without end.—Copyright, 1929, International Feature Service, Inc.

Let us not get the idea because we read of airplane accidents that amazing progress is not made in safe flying. As a matter of fact, flying is becoming increasingly safe. The reason, of course, that our attention is called to a number of accidents is that the use of the airplane is increasing at a tremendous rate. Thousands of people are now flying, as a matter of course, when but a few years ago the flyers could hardly be numbered in hundreds. In proportion to the number of machines in the air, the mishaps are far less frequent than formerly. The traveler by plane is probably as safe today as in almost any other common form of travel.

A Polish inventor by the name of Matska was consuming a bowl of soup—tomato soup. He noticed that every time he touched his teeth with his spoon he got an electric shock. He walked back to his laboratory and reflected. Few people reflect. Matska did. He experimented with types of food. He found what kind of food, containing acid, in contact with a silver spoon and his gold filled teeth, set up electric shocks. Now comes a discovery that does for sweet grape juice what pasteurization did for French wine long ago and for the world's milk supply. The pasteurization method kills bacteria by alternate heating and cooling. The new invention, by Matska, kills by electricity.

Most of us, receiving new impressions, forget them. We turn over and go to sleep. Now and then a man, receiving a new impression, walks around the block and reflects. These do the creative work of a world.

Occasionally the spotlight rests for a moment on a man who has never pulled both feet out of savagery. He suffers from perpetual immaturity. Much worse than that is the immaturity of the middle ages. Comes now a man who has actually been elected to the legislature of the good state of Nebraska. He proposes a law to destroy the freedom of the press. He is seized with the amazing idea that he knows better what is good for a republic than did George Washington, Benjamin Franklin, John Adams, and Alexander Hamilton, to say nothing of Lincoln and Roosevelt. These men knew the immeasurable value of a free and uncensored press. They saw to it—the earlier ones—that freedom of the press was guaranteed in the constitution. No thinking man has tried to take it out. As to what the unthinking do or try to do—one never can tell.

The idea of censorship of the press on the part of state or federal government is one of the things we mean when we talk about a "throwback to barbarism."

SALARY DISPUTE ON COUNCIL'S PROGRAM

Decision Expected Tonight in Controversy Over Clerks' Pay Boost

An ordinance calling for the increase in salary of three city office clerks will be up for its second reading at the regular meeting of city council tonight.

The ordinance was given its first reading two weeks ago after council split on the motion to suspend the rules and pass the ordinance. The vote stood was equally divided, four against four, when the salary increase question but it is expected that some compromise will be reached tonight and the question settled one way or the other.

From all indications council will be in for an extra long session tonight. City Clerk S. H. Keller declared today that 16 pieces of legislation would be up for approval or disapproval of the body.

The majority of the ordinances call for certain street improvements and the construction of various sidewalks throughout the city. Other routine business will be transacted.

ILLNESS FATAL TO MRS. J. C. WALTER

GERMAN monarchists, amounting to little in the republic, celebrated the former Kaiser's birthday, but the German people paid no attention to it.

Germans are well educated, thanks to a marvelous school system, 50 years' influence of the Social Democratic party. They have good brains, and they know that Germany will get more from her philosophers, scientists, industrialists, good mechanics and popular vote than from any Hohenzollern family.

The Interstate Commerce Commission permits the New York Central to combine its eleven thousand mile railroad system into one big railroad. Permission is given "conditionally," but it will go through.

Such combinations are for the public good, reducing waste in overhead charges, for which the people must pay, increasing resources for better building.

Competition is wasteful and no longer means lower prices. If the public is not intelligent enough to watch great public combinations, it would not know enough to protect itself against secret combinations.

MOVIE DOUBLES GET COLONY'S ATTENTION

reduced to cinders in the blaze which followed.

The scarcity of fatal mishaps to the unsung heroes of the movie lots was regarded as surprising, in view of the risks taken by doubles and extras.

With the advent of great numbers of picture productions, whose locale is the air, this is generally conceded that accidents, involving doubles and extras, may increase, because of the great hazards.

Nevertheless, the accident which cost the life of Miss Wiehart is the only one of its kind to be reported since the Johnson tragedy.

Recently there have been air accidents in connection with the filming of aviation pictures, which have been climaxed by narrow escapes.

Howard Hughes, director, has good reason to be thankful for the fact that he is alive. While directing a scene, about a year ago, he crashed to earth. The old war biplane in which he was riding was demolished, but Hughes escaped with only body bruises and cuts.

Al Wilson, world-famous stunt flyer, is another double who still lives by virtue of the fact that his parachute did not fail to open. While piloting an old "Jenny" military plane last May, Al suddenly discovered that his propeller had dropped away. Although he was flying very low, his parachute opened quickly and he landed safely.

DR. E. E. LYNCH DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Former Health Board Member Passes Away at Home

Victory, where the last rites will be held.

Dr. B. L. George will be in charge of the services assisted by the Rev. H. E. Williamson, pastor of the Oakland Evangelical church. Burial will be made in Mt. Victory cemetery.

Born in Mt. Victory

Dr. Lynch was born in Mt. Victory, on April 25, 1804, the son of Hezekiah and Levina Andrews Lynch. His first wife, Elizabeth Young Lynch, preceded him in death 21 years ago. He was married the second time on March 25, 1910 in Ridgeway to Mrs. Wilmina Frye.

Dr. Lynch was a member of Epworth M. E. church, Sojourners lodge of Masons, Marion lodge No. 32, B. P. O. Elks, Bird-McGinnis Post, American Legion, and the Mt. Victory lodge, Knights of Pythias.

He is survived by his widow, one daughter, Mrs. Dana Skidmore, of Lansing, Mich., a step-son, Everett Frye, of Marion and a half-sister, Mrs. Ida Wilgus, of West Mansfield.

SPEAKER REVIEWS BUNYAN'S CAREER

Local Ministers Hear Anniversary Tribute by Rev. L. J. Houghtaling

The Rev. Lester J. Houghtaling delivered an address on "The 300th Anniversary of John Bunyan's Life," before the Marion County Ministerial association this morning at 10 o'clock in the City library. The Rev. J. M. Fisher, director of Lee Street Presbyterian church, led in the devotionals.

L. Don Jones, past commander of Byrd-McGinnis Post, American Legion, explained the work of the legion and spoke of the legion publicity week, Feb. 4-9. The Rev. W. H. Howard and the Rev. G. A. Kanzler gave reports of the Pastors' convention at Columbus last week, followed by a discussion. A report on the Marion Council of Social Agencies was made by the Rev. H. E. Weckmueller.

Excerpts from the talk given by the Rev. Mr. Houghtaling are given below:

"John Bunyan is known to all the world as the author of 'Pilgrim's Progress,' a book which has been translated into more languages and has a larger circulation than any other book in the world except the Bible. It is known by English scholars as the greatest allegory that has ever been written in any language.

"Bunyan was born at Bedford, England, in November, 1628, and died in 1688. He was the son of poor parents and his early years were spent in comparative poverty. A tinner by trade, he traveled from house to house mending pots and pans.

"Without an education, and being an abominable speller, the man was a prolific writer, producing 60 books. He lived in the days of the Puritans and was himself a Dissenter. Bunyan was persecuted for preaching the Gospel and spent over 15 years in prison.

"The popularity of a book written in prison nearly three centuries ago is attributed to the fact that it is the result of a common human experience—a soul seeking peace with God.

"As Bunyan says of his book, 'It came from my heart, thence to my head and trickled down into my fingers.'"

At the meeting Monday morning, Feb. 4, Murray Powers, managing editor of The Star, will address the ministers.

BERT B. BUCKLEY GOES ON TRIAL

Charged with Offering Dry Official $300 Monthly for Raid "Tips"

After the jury was sworn, the court recessed.

Buckley's wife and daughter, Beth, were with him in the courtroom. Attorneys for the state treasurer were Robert Brumbaugh, Dayton, Henry A. Williams, Columbus, and Wellmore B. Turner, Dayton.

At the prosecutor's table were seated Haveth E. Mau, Cincinnati; Harry Abrams, Cincinnati, and W. B. Bartels, Columbus.

There are 10 counts in the indictment, eight of which charge bribery, one conspiracy and the last, an attempt to defraud the government.

Short Trial Seen

Buckley's daughter is about 23 years of age and very pretty. She was a visible comfort to her white-haired father.

Indication that the trial will last only four days was given when Judge Hough set other trials for Friday morning.

Mau began his opening statement to the jury by relating counts in the indictment, which charge bribery and conspiracy. He made mention of Schrimper's and Sperber's pleas of guilty. Adolph "Dolly" Gruber, a co-conspirator who was not indicted because of evidence furnished to the government, also will testify in the case, Mau declared.

SETTLEMENT MADE

COLUMBUS, Jan. 28—The $250,000 damage suit which was brought by Dr. Eugene F. McCampbell against Dr. James F. Baldwin, charging libel, was settled out of court, Judge John R. King announced this morning when his common pleas court was reconvened.

The amount of the settlement was not divulged. Everyone connected with it had pledged secrecy.

Dr. McCampbell, former dean of the Ohio State medical college, charged that he lost his position due to a letter which Dr. Baldwin wrote to the board of trustees.

WORK SUSPENDED

Construction of Ququa Ditch Delayed Temporarily

For the past two weeks work on the Ququa ditch has been suspended by the contractor, according to announcement today from the office of County Surveyor Cecil R. Leavens. Officials in the surveyor's office estimate that two or three weeks will be required to complete the open work of the ditch.

As yet there has been no excavations made for the tiled section of the ditch, beginning near the land of the Marion Cemetery association and the Harding Memorial association.

Completion of the ditch is expected to relieve high water conditions which prevailed over a section of the Vernon Heights blvd. twice in less than a week.

DAUGHTER IS BORN TO NANCY MILLER

American Girl, Wife of Former Maharajah, Becomes Mother

marriage aroused comment all over the world.

THE former maharajah is believed to be fabulously wealthy. He abdicated in favor of his son, Prince Yeshwant, in February, 1925, after the British government had ordered the disarming of his troops.

In January, 1925, he gained considerable notoriety through the attack of Mumtaz Begum, a dancer, by nine Indians. Nine Indore officials were arrested in connection with the attack and the girl's statement that she had been a dancer in his palace implicated the former maharajah.

THE former maharajah and his legal advisors were faced with the problem of naming the child before Wednesday.

The French law requires that the full name of every child must be registered within 48 hours after birth. According to the Hindu faith, children are named 13 days after birth.

The Indore prince sent his caretaker to the local city hall to ask for sufficient time to enable the former to conform to the religious rites of his forefathers. He was informed that the naming must occur not later than Wednesday. A day's grace was allowed because the child was born late Saturday night.

Later, however, Vishnu Karadikar, the Hindu priest who will officiate at the naming ceremony, made the following statement to International News Service:

"The name of the child will be deposited in Paris by Wednesday but that won't interefere with the thirteenth day ceremony."

MARION VETERAN AWARDED CROSS

Charles L. Landon Granted Official Recognition 10 Years After Death

Although more than 10 years have passed since Charles L. Landon gave his life in an effort to save a wounded buddy in the last German offensive during the World war, his heroism will not go unrewarded.

Announcement has been made at the war department in Washington that a posthumous award of the distinguished service cross is to be made to Landon, a former Marion man who enlisted with Company D, 166th infantry, of the 42nd division. A number of Landon's relatives live in Marion and vicinity.

Landon, a stretcher bearer, lost his life when he attempted to aid a wounded soldier of Company D, according to George T. Geran, a former major in the 166th infantry.

Landon died July 15, 1918, the day following the start of the last German offensive of the war.

GUARDIAN DENIES CONVERTING FUNDS

A. H. Monahan Files Answer in Suit Over Mary Jane Miller Estate

Denying that he converted any funds entrusted to him as guardian for Mary Jane Miller to his own purposes, A. H. Monahan has filed answer in common pleas court to the suit brought against him by J. W. Jacoby as executor of Mrs. Miller's estate. According to the petition filed by Jacoby, Monahan holds more than $2,500 as guardian, which he refuses to turn over to the executor.

The Massachusetts Bonding Co., which is also named defendant in the suit brought by Jacoby, has filed a demurrer to the petition claiming that it does not contain sufficient facts to warrant court action. The demurrer was filed after the bonding company filed a petition in common pleas court to have the court set aside the transfer of real estate from Monahan to Ruth Alice Monahan.

Monahan is represented in the court action by the law of firm Carhart & Warner.

Asks Foreclosure

The Marion Building, Savings & Loan Co. has filed foreclosure suit in common pleas court against James F. Kemper. The loan company asks foreclosure of a mortgage on which there is claimed to be due $3,151.15. The petition asks for the marshalling of the liens of the Credit Loan & Discount Co., Lucy E. Knoesley, Mrs. Blanche Stansell, George W. Ackley, W. M. Schaaf, Hugh H. Schaaf, and Zenas B. McLean. Attorney W. N. Harder represents the plaintiff.

Files Answer

Edna C. Williams has filed answer in common pleas court to the cross petition of Harold C. Williams in the foreclosure suit brought against Edna and Harold Williams by the Home Building, Savings & Loan Co. In her answer Edna Williams asks that in case the properly involved is sold that she be given one half the proceeds after all encumberances are removed.

The law firm of Mouser, Young & Mouser represents Edna Williams.

Denies Responsibility

William L. Price has filed answer to a $10,493 damage suit brought against him in common pleas court by Elizabeth Sandbower. In her petition the plaintiff charges that she was severely injured when struck by Price's car on Mary st., June 4, 1926. Price denies responsibility for the accident. He is represented by the law firm of Carhart & Warner.

Asks Dismissal

Carrie H. Fry has filed an answer and cross petition in common pleas court to the divorce suit brought against her by Olus F. Fry. The defendant asks dismissal of the plaintiff's petition and for divorce and alimony. She is represented by the law firm of Carhart & Warner.

Licenses Issued

Marriage licenses have been issued in probate court to the following:

Rush H. Hickman, 47, factory employe, and Josephine Price, 52, housekeeper, both of Marion.

Herman E. Hinto, 22, electric company employe, and Opal Henry, 20, both of Marion.

Joseph M. Snyder, 25, clerk, and Frances Crowley, 20, bookkeeper, both of Marion.

SHOW SHOPPING

With JACK or JILL

BY JILL

"PIGS," presented by the Myrtyl Ross players, Story by Anne Morris and Patterson McNutt and directed by Myrtyl Ross. Through this week at the Grand.

ALMA COBLE and Billy Dale as juvenile leads, romp away with the show in their clever impersonations of youthful financiers and near blackmailers. They are supported equally well by the remaining members of the company in one of the most entertaining shows presented during their run here.

The story is woven around Thomas Atkins, Sr., (Jack Gordon,) a lawyer, his wife, Ellen Atkins, (Myrtyl Ross,) his two sons, Spencer and Junior, (Dick Dickinson and Billy Dale,) his mother-in-law, Grandma Spencer, (Mae Kirby,) his brother-in-law, Hector Spencer, (Ernest Sharpsteen,) Mildred Cushing, (Alma Coble,) Lenore Hastings, (Mildred Lee,) Smith Hastings, (Frank Dean,) and Dr. Springer, (Manfred Gross.)

The Atkins reside in Medbury, Ind., where the lawyer's business is none too prosperous. The family hopes seem to center in the elder son, much to the discomfort of Junior who aspires to be a veterinary and gets little encouragement in his ambition. Alma Coble who believes in gaining her end by hook or crook, finds plenty to keep her victims eating out of her hand, and Mae Kirby as grandma finds her greatest concern in looking after her son and keeping an eye on what is going on in the household. Other members of the cast fit in admirably and take their turn in making the production what bids fair to be one of the best attractions of the season.

MYRTYL ROSS carries one back a few years with her gowns and hairdress in the role of Junior's mother. Ernest Sharpsteen makes you look once and then put on the blinders in his stepping out suit which he wears in the last scene.

SOME real honest-to-goodness pigs are the center of attraction in a short scene and are apparently as much at home on the stage as in the sty.

Birthday Celebration of Former Kaiser Nears End; Hermine Rift is Denied

Wilhelm's Wife Recovering from Illness; Count Bentinck Will Give Dinner for 30 Guests at Amerongen Castle Tuesday Night; Chimes Are Named

DOORN, Holland, Jan. 28 — A spokesman for Doorn castle—the home of the exiled former German kaiser—today characterized as "nonsense" the reports that differences had arisen between Princess Hermine, wife of Wilhelm, and members of the Hohenzollern family over her rank.

Princess Hermine, who took sick on Saturday, on the eve of the ex-kaiser's seventieth birthday, was reported better today. It was explained that she had a slight attack of grippe, but that the fever had disappeared today. The other patients who caught cold on the trip to Doorn were improving also.

The birthday celebration which evoked much enthusiasm from monarchist-militarist circles in Germany, will come to an end tomorrow although many of the guests already have left Doorn.

Count Bentinck, friend of Wilhelm, will entertain the former kaiser and 30 other guests at a dinner at his Amerongen castle tomorrow night. That is the concluding event in the 10 days' festivities.

Following the birthday dinner at Doorn castle when the guests raised their champagne glasses to the toast—

"Your imperial majesty's health and happiness," proposed by the former king of Saxony. The guests departed at 11 o'clock last night. The ex-kaiser retired at 11:30.

Wilhelm has named five of the china bells in the Doorn castle tower, "Kaiserin, Hohenzollern, Loyalty, Home and Brandenburg."

These chimes were a birthday present from the former emperor's sons.

Among the family guests at Doorn castle were the ex-kaiser's five sons (including the former crown prince), his daughter and 19 grandchildren.

WARDEN IMPOUNDS 20 UNTAGGED DOGS

Drive Against Canines Not Licensed Launched by Rhonds

The 1929 drive against unlicensed dogs got under way last week when Dale Rhonds, county dog warden, impounded 20 untagged canines. Ten were destroyed.

According to County Auditor Earl E. Thomas, several hundred dogs in the county are without tags. The warden has threatened to arrest all dog owners whose dogs are found without tags.

Only one sheep loss was reported last week. J. J. Wolfinger, of Waldo township, suffered a loss of $14 when dogs killed one sheep in his flock.

A report of the warden's activities last week was made to the board of county commissioners last Saturday afternoon.

Places Better Health Within Reach of All

Herbal Medicine Being Used With Amazing Results by Thousands—Vital Organs Helped—Entire System Strengthened in Many Cases.

Before Dr. French's Nu-Erb was generally known throughout the country the prescription, which today is known as "Nu-Erb" had been used with amazing success in the private practice of this eminent physician, who spent many years of research work before the formula was perfected. It helps the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to do their work properly and eliminates poisonous waste matter from the system.

Thousands of men and women have obtained surprising results through the use of this herbal medicine. Mr. A. A. Manchester, Orangeville, Ohio, says:

"It is the best medicine I have ever used. My stomach was so out of order that everything I ate soured and formed a gas which kept me in constant misery. My liver was sluggish, kidneys weak and my bowels very irregular.

"All that has changed since using Nu-Erb. I eat what I like now and am never troubled after. My kidneys show no signs of weakness and it has regulated my liver and bowels so that I am no longer troubled with constipation. It also brought relief to rheumatism of the joints from which I suffered for the last ten or twelve years."

Each one of the twelve herbs and roots from which Nu-Erb is compounded has a beneficial effect on the human system. That is why Nu-Erb is so thorough in relieving so many of the common ills of mankind when ordinary remedies would hopelessly fail.

THE NU-ERB MAN

Stuntz & Sams Pharmacy is the only place in Marion where Nu-Erb may be purchased. Go see the Nu-Erb man now making his headquarters there and let him explain to you more fully the merits of this remarkable medicine.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.

Rub Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief as effectively as the messy old mustard plaster.

Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

Just Things

BY EDNA B. DUTTON

LITTLE QUEEN

EVERYONE who has had any contact whatever with a real, honest-to-goodness nurse knows she has a heart as big as all out doors and remembers with gratitude all the things big and little she has done for one should that contact at any time have been in a professional capacity. To have one nurse devoting all her time and attention to one promotes a feeling of having just about all one might ask, and to have two seems to be just about the last word. But think of having a whole flock of them ready to do anything in the world for you. That's just the lot of a little Miss of a very few summers, out at Marion City hospital. It seems to me she has everything from pink diamonds to a personal maid. If Miss Gretchen is in the main corridor of the building where the office and desk are located it's a safe bet she is holding court and her audience is made up of superintendents, nurses, doctors, aids and anyone else who happens to have a minute to spare or time to give away as the case may be. And when meal time arrives, such coaxing, coaxing and pleading to tempt her to eat. It's a big time when the little lady makes a clear day of it by drinking all the milk and eating all the cornbread, pudding and whatever else may be on the menu. Busy doctors find time to stop for a little visit and if you have occasion to visit there often you will find yourself looking for her after the *first meeting. She is a gracious lit*tle hostess and maintains a certain amount of dignity in her relations outside her immediate family circle which takes in all the nurses of the hospital and the doctors of the city.

NEW ELIXIR

If you feel the need of a little pepping up just buy, beg or steal a ticket to a basketball game. You don't have to know the players, in fact you don't have to know a whole lot about the game, just get yourself seated and pick your team, and let nature take its course. Such dashing *up and down the floor and comming*ling of folk without a half-dozen casualties seems incredible. You run the scale of emotions from anguish to whoopee and when the quarter is over you find yourself straightening out your fingers which you have wrung into jelly. When your side has the ball near the end of the quarter you pray that the artilleryman will break his arm and if the other side has it you know he is a deep-dyed villian and is holding out on you. What aches you though, is when the actors go into what looks like a social session in the middle of the floor. They have much making of words and take it very seriously, and what they are saying is the big question. Everybody has his job and tends to it, apparently. The referee sure must have eyes in the back of his head to keep track of everybody and even the community scorekeeper must know his figures.

20 YEARS HENCE

GIRD on the political raiment girls and prepare for conflict 20 years hence. Halide Edib, Turkish feminist predicts that there will be a woman president by that time. Imagine the good time to be had doing over the official residence after our predecessor and the choice bits to be doled out over the teacup relative to how she was lax in this particular phase of the business and a perfect crank about that. And what a joy to have whole armies and navies to boss to say nothing of having the pleasure of saying who's who in the cabinet. It looms up like something to think about.

An Irish politician says that half the lies told about him are not true.

When Winter Comes
Are You Stiff, Achy— All Worn Out?

DOES winter find you lame, tired and achy—worried with backache, headache and dizzy spells? Are the kidney excretions too frequent, scanty or burning in passage?

These are often signs of sluggish kidneys and shouldn't be neglected.

To promote normal kidney action and assist your kidneys in cleansing your blood of poisonous wastes, use Doan's Pills. Recommended the world over. Ask your neighbor!

50,000 Users Endorse Doan's:

Mrs. M. G. Brown, 442 Wachovia St., Winston-Salem, N. C., says: "I suffered constantly with severe backache and could not do any housework. The action of my kidneys was irregular and caused me a lot of trouble. I used Doan's Pills and it was not long before the backache stopped and my kidneys were in good order."

Meditations OF A Married Woman

BY HELEN ROWLAND

MIXED GRILL

MORE than one woman has had to marry a man in order to get him to "give her up" gracefully.

A comfortable love and a comfortable shoe are the only kind that interests a woman after forty.

Lots of marriages are just "running along on the rim" of a punctured romance and an exhausted patience.

Girls who continue to hand out "free samples" of their kisses, can hardly expect a man to be eager to put in his order for a stock of them.

The hearty lunch that a business man eats downtown is his idea of "preparedness" for the reducing diet his wife will set before him, uptown.

A man is never interested in a heart that is marked "To Let"; he prefers to make himself miserable by trying to squeeze into one that is marked, "No Vacancies."

To have a lot of husbands is no proof of a woman's charms. It's far more difficult to hold ONE husband, these days, than it is to lose half a dozen.

The man who tries to drive through traffic with one arm and to make love with the other, is either too foolhardy to be trusted with a car or too skillful to be trusted with your heart.

A man may forgive a woman for being extravagant at his expense—but never for being "witty" at his expense.

If I Were A Man | If I Were A Girl

I'D confine my singing to the bathroom unless I were a Caruso.

I wouldn't go around trying to brighten up the world by bursting into song. There's enough noise in the world, what with clanging street car bells and automobile horns, without having strange raucous sounds issuing from men's throats all the time.

There are some men whose urge to sing is so strong that it isn't safe for a girl to go out in an automobile with them, unless she is willing to take a chance on coming home with a split ear drum.

They sing lustily as they drive. The more noise they can make, the happier they are. Tunes and words are of no consequence; to emit a huge volume of sound is their only object.

Let a man sing as he splashes in the bathtub, if he must, say I, but when he is with people he ought to be considerate enough not to inflict his weird noises upon them.

I WOULDN'T be a dumb-bell all the time and go around eshing a lot of foolish questions.

We men like our girls to be dumb once in a while and give a chance to display our superior masculine knowledge, but there's a time and place for all things.

The really clever girl is the one who knows how to be a dumb-bell at the psychological moment. And if the moment isn't at a baseball game or football game or when the boy friend is talking about how much money he is making.

When a man is being enthusiastic about something is not the time to interrupt with foolish, stupid questions. If I were a girl I'd want to know the boy friend was feeling depressed and suffering from an inferiority complex before I started pulling my dumb-bell act.

I'd flatter his sense of superiority by deferring to his masculine knowledge—and my stock would rise accordingly.

A Story of Big Business and the Wiles of Women

BY ARNOLD BENNETT

HILLIET PERKINS, leaning [illegible] rail heard cautious[ly] the after stairway lead[ing] deck There were four [illegible] communication between [illegible] corridor deck and the boat [illegible] ward and two aft She [illegible] set stairway rose al[most] behind her Mr Sep[timus] Sutherland was descending it [illegible] him in the gloom he [illegible] dressed (some would have [illegible] elegant), slightly perky [illegible] as he was evidently trying [illegible] carelessness she gave no [illegible] Indeed she resumed her [illegible] tion at the rail and [illegible] the water

[illegible] Sutherland came silently to [illegible] and his left elbow on the [illegible] of her right elbow on the [illegible] dusk water slid swirling [illegible] then apparently at a tre[illegible] speed to form the wake of [illegible] swift smooth motion [illegible] perfect quality to hold human [illegible] spell No reason why eyes [illegible] should not gaze at it for [illegible]

[illegible] Here'

[illegible] I heard a pleasant murmur [illegible] ear

[illegible] should put on your wrap [illegible] temperature is falling' How [illegible] Why couldn't he say Its [illegible] a bit coldish' Silly old [illegible]

His elbow left hers, and the next moment the green wrap was unwound from her arm She liked the candid[illegible]ness of the muffler about his neck It seemed to her to be much more romantic han a collar and tie The cap helped the romance of the muffler To reward his attentiveness she snuggled her shoulders into the coat as he settled it around them

I understood the Bumpton had marched you off to the purser,' she murmured

Radio and Subs

So he had But the Antinope was not in his right place and the Bumpton went off to look for him So I decided I would look for him myself The words of Mr Sutherland were spoken so low as scarcely to be distinguishable, but Harriet caught them

I thought I'd look for him in the cabin of the wireless operator He emphasized the last two words and glanced at her

Harriet started

I see

And she did see what Mr Sutherland meant her to see. She saw also that her admiration for Mr Sutherlands scrupulous respect for the authority of Captain Slapper had been premature Mr Sutherlands respect for the captains authority was an illusion and now Harriet admitted that if it had not been an illusion it would have been ridiculous Mr Sutherland was living up to the reputation which she had made for him in her own mind

And did you see the wireless operator

Yes But he wouldn't do anything

What did you ask him to do?'

Send a message—to Rome

And he wouldn't'

Said he couldn't without the orders of either the skipper or his lordship

You told him Lord Furber was—ill?

Oh he knew about Lord Furber

Seems to me there're all banded together against us Harriet whispered

'Yes'

'But what's the good of sending a message? What sort of a message should you have sent?'

'Well I hadn't decided I thought I'd find out first if a message could be sent at all Then you and I'd have had a chat

Do you know where we're going to?

Genoa I should imagine By the morn we should be moving in a northwesterly direction That light house there behind ought to be on the Island of Ischia Hullo! Hullo! These last words a little louder

About a couple of hundred yards off on the bow a huge curved form rose out of the flat sea and the moonlight glinted upon points of metal It might have been some marine monster but marine monsters do not usually carry a long gun on their backs

Submarine said Mr Sutherland casually Night maneuvers Probably Italian A near shave that' If she'd come up under us • • • But she couldn't have done They have instruments you know So it's all right

He did not know that submarines had 'instruments' but he thought that they should have and the idea soothed the imagination and also gave him an air of being immensely informed

The submarine produced an eerie and intimidating effect on the watchers It ran level with the yacht for a time showing no lights then slackened speed, dropped astern and disappeared into the depths

"Pity we couldn't communicate with her' said Harriet.

"No use What could we have done if we did communicate with her' Submarines don't carry a doctor

No But what fun'

"Ah! • • • Fun • • • Yes' There was a certain reserve in Mr Sutherlands tone

On the Rail

Harriet said

You don't really think there is anything seriously wrong with Lord Furber do you I mean really She had now turned herself into an ingenuous trustful girl appealing with confidence to the fount of all wisdom She was atoning for her levity in a manner to bewitch

I hope not. I think not I'm almost sure not But you can't be quite sure There might be some lesion of the brain—you never know

However it is not a bit probable, said Harriet, determined to be optimistic

No But it's a bit possible said Septimus solemnly, determined to be realistic He shed gloom around him

Naturally I'm very sorry about it all I oughtn't to have done it I ought to have reflected' He vaguely knew that he was blaming himself in order that he might bear her take up his defense

I don't think you were to blame at all said Harriet in a most serious reassuring whisper In fact it was simply splendid of you Simply splendid And of course you didn't realize your own strength

These words were surprisingly sweet to Septimus and for her Harriet found surpassing pleasure in offering them to Septimus

Well to be frank said he I did not realize my own strength

Strong men never do said she

They were both uplifted into a strange bliss Mr Sutherlands wife and adult daughters existed no more for him He had again that grand sensation of recklessness—so interesting, to a middle-aged gentleman with thin lips and bred habits

Besides said Harriet 'Lord Furber brought it on himself

Quite If I hadn't been kept on board——

Tell me Harriet spoke very confidentially and persuasively why did he keep you on board I know why I was kept on board

Why

Because they couldn't have warned me the launches were going off without warning you as well But you? Why You must have some idea

I haven't said Septimus "How really And if you'll excuse me saying so that's not the immediate point To my mind the point is that something ought to be done about Lord Furber

Well the only way to get anything done is to go and tell the captain that he mustn't do it He's in such a state of dithering conceit that he'll only take suggestions by contraries

How well you understand people!' murmured Mr Sutherland His tone seemed to imply And how wonderfully how nicely, you've understood me

I think you ought to speak to the captain said Harriet I'll go with you if you like If we insist on his making straight for Genoa as quick as he can he'll be sure to put back to Naples which would be the best thing We know the English doctor at Naples—and all my frocks are there too

Excellent' agreed Septimus 'I fancy we can deal with the captain—prick his balloon eh

Septimus stood upright in his sudden decision and simultaneously felt a touch in the small of his back He swung round Harriet swung round also A tall man faced them Felt slippers had enabled the fellow to come right up to them soundless ly

I'm the purser' said the man to Septimus 'Mr Antinope my name is Captain sent me I'll thank you to come along at once'

No sir' Neither the formulae nor the accent of respect

Septimus raised his hand whereupon with great swiftness Mr Antinope seized the wrist in a terrible flesh lacerating clutch

'No more o that said Mr Antinope briefly

Septimus could not move

Harriet laid a restraining finger on Mr Sutherland's right arm

'Don't hurt him, she appealed to Mr Sutherland "Remember you didn't realize your strength We don't want more trouble

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M LEWIS

YESTERDAY was Sunday when I let Jubilee down and it wasn't very hot and it wasn't so very cold I got goose pimples on my legs from standing at the open window but my legs didn't look like German mottled soap like they do when it is real cold And when I went out to empty the ashes before I fixed the fires the wind wasn't blowing, so I didn't know which way to stand to keep from getting ashes all over me

When I had milked the cows and the bunch had stood around and asted me if that was the best I could do and the Lost Bag of Tripe had asted Maggie how she would like to be a cow and had got what water was left in the barn pail all over him and Maggie had asted him how he would like to be a human being and we had all wondered how Feeble and our horse which my father sold was getting along, I went in the house to strain the milk and feed my face, and my grandfather said winter is not yet over by a long shot He said all next month will be warm and cold like chills and fever or like an old man in love. Then he said March would be like two old maids in love and he was grinning and kinda looking sideways at my aut while he was talking, and he held his napkin up to his mouth to sort of hide his grin And my aut spunked hold of a corner of the napkin and gave it a quick jerk and we was all surprised to see his false teeth come out and hit the table and bounce onto the floor, and his face closed up like an accordian, and he said to her, "You think you're funny, don't you?" and she said, "No, I think you're funny." So I grabbed a couple of pancakes and hilled out before I could be blamed.

So and the bunch went over to see Feeble and I told her mother I would pull Feeble all the way to Sunday school on my slay if she would let her go. Her mother said that was sweet of me, but she thought she would keep Feeble at home a little while yet, till she was sure she was all right. Nothing happened at Sunday school. I didn't think there would.

Today was Monday and [illegible] them so she put on her fur coat and hid And that's what a fur coat does for a woman A woman is mean to them as a dog because a dog has been in its fur coat I said I was glad I didn't have fur to be skinned for a fur coat for somebody My father said when I grow up I'll bet that won't make any difference I must have been a joke for they all laughed

Still Thin

Still young, still lovely

So easy to fight fat

Have you wondered why the extra-fat people of old days have so largely disappeared? The chief reason lies in a scientific discovery made some 25 years ago Medical research found that a great cause of excess fat lay in a deficient gland. A way to correct it was discovered. Since then, physicians the world over have employed this method in the fight on fat.

A famous medical laboratory perfected the utmost in this method in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 21 years—millions of boxes of them. You can see the results wherever you look Excess fat in men and women is nowhere near as common as it was.

No starvation, no over-work, corrects the cause of excess fat, but moderation helps. When the cause lies in a defective gland, that cause must be corrected.

The slender figures that you see about you are largely due to Marmola. The new youth and beauty, new health and vigor that you envy. You do yourself a great injustice if you omit this help.

The way is to correct this gland deficiency. No abnormal exercise or diet. Simply take four tablets daily as directed by the package. Results are guaranteed or your money back. Then you can eat what you like, and you will be delighted with your appearance at the end. You can obtain Marmola

Love's Awakening

The Heart Story of a Woman's Lasting Affection

BY ADELE GARRISON

Dicky Becomes a Bit Flusterel

I HAD not expect Dicky's direct appeal to me when he brushed his plausible explanation of the taxicab story which was the reward for the cunningly simulated jealousy he had given Enid to Edith Fairfax after a study and then to the rest of us at the farmhouse For an instant I had no words to answer his query as to the 'silliness' of the ornaments lying in my lap Then almost without my volition I heard me voice saying blandly Yes, indeed they are exquisite' The next instant Harry Underwood's drawl I wish I'd thought of that' rescued me from the necessity of further reply

It isn't a bad yarn lad' he said judicially I've heard less convincing ones in my time Well consider that you've put it over this once and won't call in the police to investigate But take the advice of an old timer and don't pull the same stunt oftener than once in 10 years or so'

Dicky laughed and I fancied that there was uneasiness in his mirth If I were not mistaken Harry Underwood's lazy badinage concealed a caution not to tax my credulity too far

I'm not apt to be said a bit ruefully These things seem at least aren't exactly new and feel funk you know

'No I suppose not Mr Underwood said in a severely appraising tone that brought laughter from all of us But it remained for Lillian to pierce most effectually the inflated balloon of Dicky's complacence over the success of his explanation

Who in the world didn't you wait for Christmas or birthdays for these things Dicky first she asked "They would have made perfectly gorgeous gifts But I'll be magnanimous I haven't reason to you anything for there's three days This is my birth day gift and think you very kindly

Dicky is rarely nonplused but at this apparently innocent query his face for a moment was a study in embarrassment

That's what I'm ashamed, Ann finished composedly— though at first but they were so devoted attentive I couldn't wait'

You mean Edith couldn't' I said bitterly to myself, but I was careful to let no hint of my feeling show in my face and forced myself to hold up my gifts and look at them with the satisfaction the other women were bestowing upon theirs

For I had no belief in his ingenious story He simply had made the best of a very embarrassing situation with a quickness of thought that did credit to his resourcefulness if not to his financial judgment If he had not come into the office at that particular moment I never would have known that he had given Edith the beautiful baubles and there would have been no reason for this wholesale junk shop' exhibit I repeated Harry Underwood's mocking words to myself with morbid restlessness though I knew that the gifts had not the remotest connection with the term Mr Underwood had gibingly used They were purely beautiful and more valuable than many imitation gems because of their exquisite settings

Dicky did not give Lillian or any one else a chance to comment upon his lame answer to her query concerning gifts No sooner had he uttered the last word than he turned to Junior

Come son he said 'slant let the term Mr Underwood had gibbing our nickels an' dimes with their gibble-gabble I'm Crazy, the Coyote this evening and it's my night to howl He's heard of the prophet you're growing lad I won't be able to do this much longer. You'll be carrying me

PREACER ASSAILS PASTOR CONVENTION

Columbus Man Calls Ministerial Meeting "Sewing Circle"

COLUMBUS Jan 28 — Last week's meeting of the Ohio Pastors convention here was the subject of severe criticism and its actions were bemoaned in a sermon made from the pulpit of the Central Baptist church here last night by the Rev H O Van Glider the pastor of the church

The sermon was expected to bring forth wrathful replies from other ministers today

Excerpts from the tongue lashing follow

"The Ohio pastors sewing circle has just held its annual pow wow and Columbus has been treated to the sickening spectacle of men who are prophets of God more concerned, apparently with birth control than with birth from above more concerned with insurance against unemployment than with insurance against hell more concerned that nations should have peace among themselves than that the sinner should have peace with God and more concerned that men should have fair wages than that men should escape the wages of sin

Sin and lawlessness are running joyously on the toboggan the devil is greasing the skids and the prophets of God are playing marbles"

HALF-CENTURY OF PROSPERITY CITED

National Wealth Jumps to $320,804,000,000 from $43,642,000,000

WASHINGTON Jan 28—A half century of American prosperity and progress were outlined by the commerce department today in connection with the golden anniversary of the compilation of business statistics by the government

National wealth in this period has expanded enormously from $43,642,000,000 to $320,804,000,000 in 1922 or probably another hundred billion since that year

In 50 years the value of all agricultural crops rose from $2,579,000,000 to $9,536,000,000 The manufacturing output in 46 years increased more than 11 times to a total of $60,711,000,000 while the mineral production jumped from $567,000,000 in 1880 to $5,520,000,000 in 1927

The department compilations showed in individual bank deposits—from $2,134,000,000 in 1880 to more than $51,000,000,000 at the present time

Foreign trade has expanded an average of 13 1 2 per cent a year in the last half century [illegible] ed a gain of [illegible] per 15 per cent It was anticipated that 1929 would see the trade close to $10,000,000,000

Mothers! Avoid Too Much Dosing For Influenza

It May Upset Digestion And Thus Still Further Lower The Body-Resistance

According to health authorities a peculiarity of influenza is that its toxins upset the digestive system especially in the case of children Too much dosing still further disturbs the digestion and should be avoided except on advice of a physician

Vicks VapoRub is especially valuable because it is applied externally and so can be used freely with no risk of upsetting the digestion nor can it interfere with any other treatment your doctor may prescribe

Physicians advise that the chief danger in this epidemic is after influenza When more than ever, colds attacking the weakened system may lead to bronchitis sinus trouble or pneumonia Heed even the slightest cold as a danger signal and treat it promptly without dosing Just rub Vicks on throat and chest at bedtime —Adv

Mansfield Quintet Beaten By Bucyrus Cagers

NOT MUCH CHANCE

WITH Mansfield failing to come through as was expected previous to Saturday night's clash, it begins to look as though Coach Winters' Bucyrus Redmen have been highly underestimated. In fact Bucyrus has been going so strong that it looks as though Harding has very little chance of even grabbing a piece of the North Central league bunting.

Bucyrus has met two of the toughest teams of the league—Harding and Mansfield—and emerged on the long end of the count. The Crawford county boys still have three games to play but should win all of them. Ashland and Shelby should be easy while Galion, in spite of its two league victories, is a somewhat doubtful subject. Earlier in the season Bucyrus beat the Eaton cagers in a one-sided game so should not have any difficulty in duplicating the act later.

Harding's only chance is to win the remaining three games on its schedule and then pray that Bucyrus is knocked off in an upset by one of the three weak teams. Any the locals have been showing up in their last two games that will be a big assignment.

WESLEYAN GOES HOT

AFTER putting out a football team that excited considerable attention last year, Ohio Wesleyan university has followed with a basketball aggregation that ranks as the greatest in the state and among the best in the country.

Saturday night the team stayed at the head of the B. I. A. C. by defeating Denison in a game that far from tested the strength of the Bishops. It was the thirteenth straight for the Delaware five.

In Delaware there is peculiar situation. The Bishops seem to be entirely too strong in an athletic way for anything that is produced in Ohio and yet not strong enough to withstand the schedule of another conference. Still, it is better to be a big fish in a small puddle.

THREE CONTESTS IN INDUS LOOP TONIGHT

League Leaders Take on Electrics; Steam Shovel Plays College

Games tonight in the Industrial basketball league will find the leading Osgood quintet taking on the C., D. & M.-Kappa cagers in the third scheduled contest. To date the leaders have not been defeated.

Wilson-Excavators will open the schedule by playing the Power-Hockings. The Power five has yet to chalk up a victory.

The College-Malleable clash with the Steam Shovel should develop into a real battle. The Shovels have been showing some real class and are tied for second place with the Electrics.

CRAWFORD COUNTY TEAM TIES GALION IN N. C. O. LEAGUE

Monnett and Lerch Each Score Ten Points For Winners

MANSFIELD was eliminated from the running in the North Central Ohio basketball race Saturday night and Bucyrus established itself as potential league champions when the Crawford county school kicked the dope bucket all over Mansfield's court to win, 34 to 20.

Only in one period did Mansfield hold the edge on the Bucyrus cagers. That was in the opening quarter when the losers held the long end of a 6 to 4 count. At the half Bucyrus had taken over the lead 16 to 14. The Redmen ran wild in the last half holding a 10 point lead at the three-quarter mark. Bucyrus scored eight points to Mansfield's four in the final period.

Monnett and King were the outstanding scorers in the game being responsible for the Bucyrus victory. Each counted 10 points from four buckets and two fouls. Baker was good for seven points while Taylor chalked up six. Sharp was high for Mansfield with six points.

As a result of the victory, Bucyrus landed in a first place tie with the Galion cagers. Each team has won two games and lost nine. However, Bucyrus has disposed of its hardest teams while Harding, Mansfield and Bucyrus remain on the Galion schedule.

The lineups:

SHARKEY RECEIVES PROMISE OF FIGHT

Word Given by Dempsey That He Will Fight Winner of Miami Beach Bout Next Fall; Contracts Are Signed

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, Jan. 28—Jack Sharkey has a "lip promise" from the boy friend, Jack Dempsey, to meet him for the heavyweight championship this year, provided Sharkey doesn't blow the Stribling fight at Miami Beach next month, it was learned today. A lip promise is something that usually is given with great freedom; you give it, in fact, very readily because of the outstanding fact. You don't have to keep it. In a court of law, a lip promise is liable to run rapidly for Ignatz the iceman.

However, the Sharkey crowd has accepted the situation in perfect faith and is going ahead on these lines if it takes all summer, which undoubtedly it will. They have signed what they understand to be a contract for the Dempsey fight and did so only after they had refused to be a party to the document until Dempsey had promised that he, himself, John, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dempsey, would be in the other corner.

The signing took place jointly with the closing of the Sharkey-Stribling deal in Boston recently by Dempsey and William F. Carey, of the Garden corporation. It is understood that Dempsey's name doesn't appear in the document, which, in ordinary phraseology, tells Sharkey that, first, he must beat Stribling; second, that he is to have a guarantee of $100,000; third, that he may have a 25 per cent "privilege." The word, privilege, hardly does justice to the situation. It will be a downright boon, if John Dempsey is in there. The Sharkey people thus explain why the guarantees are the same for their Stribling and Dempsey fights. In the first instance, a guarantee means everything; in the second, nothing.

Dislikes Sharkey

The signing of the second contract in Boston may mean everything or nothing, too. Dempsey, it is understood, learned to care for Sharkey almost not at all during that conference. A hard man to deal with himself, he was pained to discover that Sharkey was nothing but a vulgar seeker after money. This naturally irked him very much. So, undoubtedly, did the fact that some of Dempsey's personal money became involved in the deal.

Anyhow, it may be that he decided, then and there, that this man was getting everything except the thing, which in Dempsey's opinion, he needed most: A punch on the nose.

On the other hand, Dempsey may have decided to be cute. His head might have nodded "yes," while his tongue was whispering "no." Dempsey is a remarkable man but he has his limitations. He can't nod his tongue.

The Stribling, of course, may be pardoned if they think that all of this business is a bit premature. They might be mildly astonished, too, to learn that New York seems to have accepted a Sharkey victory at Miami Beach as a matter of course. The general idea here seems to be that Stribling can't hope to absorb the right uppercuts with which Sharkey smote K. O. Christner so many times and oft.

I think I can go further than that and say that Stribling doesn't hope to do this or even expect to do it. The resident observers, I would say, are overlooking several essential considerations, namely: Christner is wide open like a huckster's mouth; Stribling is wide open like a case of lockjaw.

CHICAGO GYMNASTS TO MEET WESLEYAN

Six Engagements on Battling Bishop's Sport Program This Week

DELAWARE, Jan. 28—University of Chicago's gym team, Big Ten champions, will come here Friday for a dual meet with Ohio Wesleyan gymnasts in the feature of six engagements on Ohio Wesleyan's sport menu this week.

While the gymnasts of the two colleges go through their paces in Edwards gym, the Chicago and Bishop fencing teams will exchange thrusts in another part of the gymnasium.

The Bishop basketball team, riding on the top wave in its battle for the Buckeye conference championship, will meet Wittenberg Thursday night at Springfield and then will take on the University of Dayton in a non-conference tilt Saturday night at Dayton. Dayton will be the scene of another Bishop athletic contest Saturday night when the swimming team will open its season with a meet against Dayton "Y" natators in the "Y" pool there.

Ohio Wesleyan's track team, 1928 and Ohio conference champions, will open their indoor schedule here Saturday afternoon with a dual meet against Ohio State. Strength of the Bishop team is considerably in doubt due to the fact that grades for the first semester, which ended last week, are not yet available and Coach George Gauthier believes some of his men my feel the scholastic axe.

SHARKEY, STRIBLING WILL START TRAINING

Fighter To Establish Quarters at Miami Beach This Week

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 28—Jack Dempsey announced today that both Jack Sharkey and Young Stribling would be in Miami Beach this week to begin active training for their bout there Feb. 27.

Sharkey, the silent sailor, telegraphed Dempsey that his trainer would arrive tomorrow to select his training site and complete arrangements for the Boston battler. Sharkey will follow soon thereafter. Stribling is expected here Wednesday.

Both Dempsey and Carey expressed themselves as delighted with the fight Sharkey made against K. O. Christner in New York.

"He made the best of a tough opponent," said Dempsey.

BATTLING BISHOPS STAND OUT AS BEST CAGE TEAM IN OHIO

Defiance Tops Northwest Conference with Three Wins, One Defeat

THE best basketball team in Ohio appears to be Ohio Wesleyan. The Battling Bishops have won 13 consecutive games, including a win over Ohio State, usually considered the class of basketball squads in the state.

The leaders in the various Ohio basketball leagues are: Ohio Wesleyan with four wins and no defeats in the Buckeye; Defiance with three wins and one defeat in the northwest conference; and Wooster and Muskingum with four wins and one defeat in the Ohio conference.

Dayton, really heads the list in Ohio conference circles, but it has met only Muskingum and Capital in the league games.

Cincinnati mounted to second place in the Buckeye standings during the past week. The Bearcats were the leaders of their division last year. Miami by conquering Ohio, now has company in the cellar berth, sharing it with the team it defeated. Denison lost to Ohio Wesleyan last week, dropping into third place.

The Buckeye standings:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
Ohio Wesleyan	4	0	1000
Cincinnati	3	2	600
Denison	2	2	500
Wittenberg	1	2	333
Miami	1	3	250
Ohio	1	3	250

Defiance, while atop the Northwest conference ladder, does not appear, from comparative scores, to be the class of the league. Findlay and Toledo have lost only one game and have won two, but have scored nearly as many points as Defiance in four games. They have held their opponents to much smaller scores.

The Northwest conference standings:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
Defiance	3	1	750
Findlay	2	1	667
Toledo	2	1	667
Bowling Green	1	2	333
Bluffton	0	3	000

In addition to Wooster and Muskingum in the Ohio conference, the other squads appearing to be headed somewhere include Heidelberg and Mt. Union, each having won three and lost but one; and Akron, Capital, Western Reserve and Hiram, all of whom have lost only two games. Kenyon appears to be the goat of the conference this year, having failed to register a win in six starts against conference foes.

Games in which Ohio teams participate this week are:

Monday: Defiance vs. Antioch at Yellow Springs; Findlay vs. Ashland at Ashland.

Tuesday: Wittenberg vs. Denison at Granville; Youngstown vs. Kent; State at Kent.

Wednesday: Defiance vs. Catawba at Salisbury, N. C.

Thursday: Wittenberg vs. Ohio Wesleyan at Delaware.

Friday: Defiance vs. Elon at Elon N. C.; Bowling Green vs. Heidelberg at Tiffin; Baldwin Wallace vs. Hiram at Berea.

Saturday: Mt. Union at Kent; Ohio Wesleyan at Dayton; Wittenberg at Cincinnati; Ohio at Denison; Otterbein at Ohio Northern; Miami at Muskingum; Oberlin at Wooster; Case at Akron; John Carroll at Assumption, Sandwich, Canada; Ashland at Western Reserve; Defiance at Elon; Bluffton at Findlay.

Big Ten Hit By Exams

Ohio Beats Chicago in Only Game Last Week

CHICAGO, Jan. 28—Erstwhile heroes on Big Ten basketball courts will be just a group of perplexed students trying to "get by" this week in a series of contests familiarly known as "mid-term exams."

Meanwhile, Michigan still retains its role as pacemaker in the championship heat, having won four games and lost none. Wisconsin and Purdue are tied as runnersup, each with five victories and one defeat.

Only one conference game was played Saturday. In that affair, played at Columbus, Ohio State beat Chicago, 40 to 30. The victory gave the Buckeyes undisputed possession of fourth place with three wins and two defeats.

Iowa comes next with two and two.

In the second division, Illinois, Northwestern and Indiana hold a triple tie with two games won and three lost. Chicago and Minnesota have lost five games each and won none.

Despite the distracting "exams," the cagers are working out daily and all teams, especially those in the first division, expect to hit the middle stretch in top form.

PAULINO MAY GET SHOT AT AKRONITE

Heeney Refuses To Fight Unless Opponent Is Jack Dempsey

NEW YORK, Jan. 28—Indications were today that Paulino Uzcudun, the busy basque, will get first crack at K. O. Christner, the venerable Akron, Ohio, heavyweight who leaped into the front rank of gate attractions by giving Jack Sharkey a hard battle here Friday night.

Christner has signed up "in blank" to box either Tom Heeney or Paulino at Madison Square Garden on Feb. 22. Since Charley Harvey has announced that Heeney will remain in retirement unless he is offered a match with Jack Dempsey, Paulino probably will be Christner's opponent if his board of directors, meeting today, accepts the offer. Heeney has until tonight to accept the bout.

Sometimes, the weather does not appear come out of a weather "bureau," but a refrigerator.

2945 PINS SCORED BY BRADLEY DRUGS AT SANDUSKY CITY

Boyd Leads Local Smashers with Total of 628

ROLLING a total of 2945 pins, the Bradley Drug bowlers of Marion Sunday afternoon took first money in the Sandusky sweepstakes held at Sandusky City.

The Sandusky All-Stars took second money with a total of 2870 pins. Prizes amounting to $150 were distributed. Teams from northern Ohio competed.

Boyd led the local bowlers with 628 pins for the three games. His 226 was high for the individual scoring on the Marion team. The locals rolled its best score in the third game when they collected a total of 1027 pins. Both of the remaining games were well above the 900 mark.

The local scores follow:

Steinmetz	184	202	195	581
Schuler	191	192	183	566
Zeigler	161	175	216	552
Kopp	214	187	215	618
Boyd	220	180	210	628
Totals	970	942	1027	2945

An analytical person will ponder on whether some sympathy is one part tender compassion and three parts curiosity.

32 TEAMS TO ROLL IN LOCAL TOURNEY

Sweepstakes Scheduled for Recreation Alleys on Tuesday Night

Thirty-two teams will be entered in the one-man sweepstake bowling tournament to be held Tuesday night on the Recreation Alleys. Prizes ranging from $25 to $5 will be distributed. Each bowler will roll four games across the eight alleys with the first 16 starting off at 9:30 o'clock. The second section is scheduled to roll at 10:30 o'clock. A few entries are open at the present time.

THIMBLE THEATER — BY SEGAR

SAY, HOW THE HECK DID YOU FIND OUR SHIP?
I HAPPENED TO FIND THE MAN YOU BOUGHT IT FROM THE REST WAS EASY- I HIRED A FELLOW TO BRING ME OUT AND I STOWED AWAY TILL YOU WERE OUT TO SEA
TELL ME, CASTOR-DID YOU REALLY WANT A DIME'S WORTH OF LONGITUDE? OR DID YOU JUST SEND ME ON THAT ERRAND SO YOU COULD SLIP AWAY FROM ME?
FOR CRYIN' OUT LOUD SHE ISN'T WISE YET!
I WENT TO A DOZEN PLACES BUT I FINALLY GOT IT — THE CLERK LAUGHED WHEN HE HANDED IT TO ME — WHY HE DID THAT I DON'T KNOW
HA! HA! I'LL BET THE CLERK GAVE HER A BAG OF FLOUR OR SOMETHING
YES, MR. POPEYE - MY BROTHER DOESN'T WANT IT AND AFTER ME WE STING ALL THAT TIME GETTING THIS DIME'S WORTH OF LONGITUDE DIME'S WORTH OF WHICH?
I SAID A DIME'S WORTH OF LONGITUDE

Profit-Taking Gives Wall Street Breathing Spell

INDUSTRIAL STOCKS STOP UPWARD MOVE

Heavy Selling Orders Feature Opening Hour of Market

RAILS STRONGER

North Central Jumps Five Points in View of Decision

BY W. S. COUSINS
I. N. S. Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 28—Industrial stocks which have been carrying their advance in a high-handed manner during the last two weeks ran into a stone wall of profit-taking and speculative selling today which effectively blocked their progress to the higher levels. For the first time since the middle of the month the whole market stopped for one of the periodic breathing spells which are absolutely essential for any well-regulated movement.

As usual, the market started off like a race horse under the whip of heavy accumulation of buying orders over the week-end. These appeared in a series of 5,000 to 20,000-share rides on the tape, at prices anywhere from two to six points above Saturday's close. On the curb, a wild movement of electric bond and share common boosted that stock up 40 points with a spectacular 20 point drop. The electrical stocks and specialties led the move on the big board and sailed along jubilantly until the big selling wave appeared.

New shipments of gold from Canada and London were hailed with enthusiasm by the bulls, who have been encouraged also by the large influx of corporation cash into the call money market. This removes most of their worries on the money situation.

New York Central's new high point jump to 190 was the feature of the rails, the stock responding to the commerce commission's decision in the so called unification case. The Nickel Plate stocks were strong and Chicago Great Western common and preferred continued their strong upward move. Most of the rail stocks are selling around 10 times their annual earnings, or on a much more favorable basis than the industrials, and prominent bulls expect them to lead the next upward move.

TODAY'S REVIEW OF YESTERDAY'S GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan 28—Speculative interest continued to broaden on the local grain exchange during the past week. Sentiment towards all the grains was bullish, but heavy profit taking following nearly large weeks of steadily advancing prices kept net gains for this week comparatively small.

Wheat led in activity the past week and took much of the interest from the corn market. Reports of crop damage were the principal factors behind the buying. A boost in the final Canadian crop figures was practically ignored. At the close, Saturday, prices showed net advances of 3⅝@3¾c, with the March at $1.25⅝, May, $1.28⅝; and July, $1.30⅜.

Trade in corn was lighter than during the preceding two weeks, mainly because of the increase in wheat trade. Buying power was not sufficient to sustain prices at new high prices on the crop recorded Saturday, and closing prices showed gains for the week of only ½@1⅝c, with March at 98⅝c, May, $1.01⅞, and July, $1.03¾.

Oats were strong. The tightness of country offerings and an improvement in spot demand was reflected in higher cash prices, with a resultant strengthening of the futures. Prices scored net advances of 1⅝@ 1½c.

The strong statistical position of rye brought further interest to that grain. Trade was featured by rather erratic price swings, but gains of 1⅞@2⅞c were made.

Trade in provisions was more active than in many weeks. Bullish news of the hog situation and a bullish live stock report led to active commission house buying. The demand was satisfied at higher prices by packers' hedging sales.

Wheat at the present time presents a puzzling situation to the trade, and this was responsible for rather erratic and rapid price changes near the close of the week.

The latter half of the period was marked by broadening outside interest and bullish enthusiasm. For the first time since the start of the upturn, three weeks ago today, the open interest began to increase. It had declined from the start of the upswing some 20,000,000 bu. This was taken as an indication that the extensive short lines had been well covered and outside interest and local professionals were taking the constructive side.

True Bull Affair

Seasoned traders were skeptical of the advance being sustained in the face of bear exporting disparity, but local professionals bought in some instances mainly on the fact that outside interest was sufficient for any time value to be absorbed on the advance giving the market all the appearance of a true bull affair.

The main reason for the decline ing the advance will hold is that buying has been based on crop damage and it is still too early to bull wheat on that score many of the market's supporters pointed to the fact that whether or not it was too early to tell the extent of the damage, this is the time of year when the damage which shows up later is done and from all advices received it appears that the Winter crop is many sections has contended with unfavorable conditions.

Foreign markets were rather indifferent to the local advance, but Broomhall in his reviews pointed to the increased consumption this year and to the fact that heavy world's shipments approaching record size were being well distributed, with the non European countries large purchasers.

Argentine News Bullish

Advices from Argentine were still very bullish on corn. Light rains were received, but they were called insufficient and many sections will need considerable precipitation within a short time. Some export business was worked, but it was reported mainly covering to fill old sales for late half January clearance. Argentine cash was reached the point late in the period where it was within 2 cents of selling equal with wheat, parcel for parcel.

The [illegible] situation was [illegible] the bulls with [illegible] influences still [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Many price changes were registered today in Marion's market places, and most of the changes were in favor of the shopper.

The largest was the cut in the price of cane sugar, dropping from $5.96 per 100 pounds to $5.72. The 25-pound sacks dropped from $1.49 to $1.43.

In the grocery department only one other change was registered and this was the price on Michigan potatoes, falling from 28 cents a peck to 22 cents.

In the meat department of the stores it is found that boiling beef advances from 18 cents to 21 cents per pound and pork cuts goes up one cent, from 15 to 16 cents per pound. Hamburg also goes up to 22 cents.

County Women's Chapter Votes To Cooperate with Republican Club

The Marion county chapter of the Ohio council of Republican women will cooperate with the Marion County Republican club in maintaining permanent party headquarters in the Marion Building & Savings & Loan Co. building, as a result of action taken at a meeting of the council, Saturday noon. The meeting followed a luncheon in the dining room of the Y. W. C. A.

Headquarters in the down company building have been redecorated and will be occupied by Republican organizations soon, it was said today. Lease for the rooms has been signed by Attorney Carter Patton, president of the Republican club.

Mrs. Emma Voorhees, president of the chapter, had charge of the meeting Saturday.

The chapter continued to perfect its organization throughout the county by the appointment of Miss Gertrude Sickel, of Caledonia, and Mrs. Claire Davis, of Latue, as chairmen for their respective towns.

A constitution for the chapter was adopted following the report of the constitution committee, headed by Mrs. H. K. Henderson. Mrs Henderson gave the report of the committee which resulted in the adoption of the constitution.

Mrs. Voorhees, Miss Lillian Pluck, chairman of the chapter finance committee, and Mrs. Lorin Myers, secretary of the chapter, will meet with representatives of the Republican club in the near future, to work out plans for maintaining the new party headquarters.

FINAL WORK STARTS ON TAX COLLECTION

Treasurer Begins Check-Up Preparatory to Settlement with Auditor

County Treasurer James E. Messenger began work of closing the tax collection books today in preparation for turning them over to County Auditor Earl E. Thomas. According to the treasurer, he will continue to accept taxes until the books are closed.

The extension granted by the board of county commissioners for the payment of Dec. 31st taxes expired last Saturday. Taxes paid after the treasurer's books are turned over to the auditor will be increased by a penalty.

The collection for last Saturday amounted to $80,215.15, Messenger stated today.

NEW CRUISER BILL DUE TO BE PASSED

Administration Leaders Predict Its Enactment During This Week

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28—With five weeks of life remaining, the seventieth congress today appeared to have completed its legislative program except for the administration's "big navy" bill, the usual appropriation bills and a handful of minor legislation.

The senate was occupied with the new cruiser bill, with administration leaders predicting its enactment during the week. The house faced a week of action on calendar legislation, most of it regional or personal, and a decision on the first deficiency appropriation bill, with its $24,000,000 increase in dry enforcement funds and its authorization of publicity on all federal income tax refunds.

Once the administration cruiser bill is enacted by the senate, only routine matters appeared ahead of congress. In the senate, two other important measures have been pending for months—the congressional reapportionment bill and the Edge resolution, providing a survey for the proposed new Nicaraguan canal—and both probably will be enacted before adjournment.

Two really major subjects—farm relief and tariff reform—will not be considered by the dying congress. Both measures will be handled by the next congress at a special session, to be called sometime between March 15 and April 15, under an agreement reached by the house and senate leaders.

Select List Meets

A brief meeting of the Select List of Ohio Dailies held this morning preceding the sessions of the other groups.

Business meetings of the Buckeye and Ohio Newspaper Associations will be held Thursday evening. In the afternoon, addresses will be given by Charles Jones, former newspaper man and secretary to Gov. Cooper; and Ervin Funk. The president's annual message will then be delivered by R. B. Howard, manager of the London Press and Democrat.

Talks relating to advertising will feature the Friday session. Principal speakers will be Harvey Young, advertising director of the Columbus Dispatch; James O'Shaughnessy, advertising counselor of Columbus and H. E. C. Rowe.

R. C. Snyder will be the principal speaker at the closing session Friday night. Others who will address the publishers will include C. L. Knight, publisher of the Akron Beacon Journal and the Massillon Independent, Hugh Fullerton and Governor Cooper.

75 PER CENT OF BUDGET OBTAINED

About 75 per cent of the budget of Trinity Baptist church was subscribed in pledges through an every member canvass Sunday afternoon, according to a statement made this morning by Frank Glosser, chairman of the financial committee. The canvassers consisted of 41 divisions, and the canvass was completed in the period from 2 o'clock until 4 o'clock Sunday. The canvass will continue through the entire week, and it is expected that enough pledges will be received to entirely cover the sum of the budget set by the committee.

Goiter Clinic will be held every Friday from 1 to 5 p. m. at Dr. Wiley's office, Palace Theater building. No charges for examination.

Pythian Sisters No. 381 will hold a public card party Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the hall of No. 402 K. of P.

GIRL TAKES LIFE

Drinks Poison When Father Reprimands Her for "Date"

MEDINA, Jan. 28—Seventeen-year-old Nellie Lawrence is dead, a suicide, today because she was reprimanded by her father for keeping a "date" with a young man.

One of the most beautiful and popular girls in the high school here, Miss Lawrence had been forbidden by her father, Charles W. Lawrence, to keep engagements with young men. Saturday night, however, she returned home late and admitted that she had been with a youth who was graduated from the high school last year.

When her father scolded her the girl ran upstairs, drank a quantity of poison, and came back, staggering and blinded. Efforts of her father and mother and a doctor proved futile towards saving her life.

LATIN CLUB MEETS

Hears Address by Miss Allmendinger, Harding High Instructor

One of the outstanding features of a meeting of the Marion County Latin club, Saturday afternoon Jan. 26, in the Marion County school office, West Center st., was an address by Miss Olla Allmendinger, Latin instructor at Harding High school, on the three values derived from the study of Latin—the cultural, disciplinarian and instrumental.

The meeting opened with singing of Latin songs, directed by Miss Esther Habermann. Three of the members, Miss Winifred Anderson of the Pleasant Township school, Miss Lena Chalfant of the Claridon school and K. W. Povenmire, superintendent of the Waldo schools, presented Latin charts and posters made by members of their classes. Miss Anderson also gave a talk on the lesson assignment.

A discussion on "Aims," led by C. B. Rayburn, superintendent of county schools, closed the meeting.

For storing clothings in closets or trunks large envelopes with hooks for hanging them up have been invented, containing places for marking the contents.

Only A Storekeeper But Hero Medals Fall on Him

NEW YORK, Jan. 28—Fame has suddenly burst upon Salvatore Bracco, and dazed him.

A few days ago Bracco was just a storekeeper on the S. S. America, unique in that he had the memory of a heroic adventure in 1925, a rescue at sea, for which he was decorated.

Today, Bracco finds himself again in the hero's role, for he is one of the most feted members of the America's rescue squad which saved 32 lives when the freighter Florida foundered. Today he was to receive, at city hall, medals from the city of New York and from the Italian residents of this city.

Tomorrow night he will be the guest of honor at a reception in his home town, Union City, N. J. The mayor will present him with another medal and an engraved watch.

Swiss postal authorities have recommended the standardizing of envelope sizes to save time and labor in the manufacture of stationery and in the handling of mail.

MAYTAG Washers Now in Antarctica with Byrd South Pole Expedition

Available with electric or on-built gasoline motor

THE BYRD South Pole Expedition has reached its permanent base, 2400 miles south of the nearest human dwelling.

"Maytags were selected," says Sidney Gleason, Chief Steward, "because of the advanced type, strength of aluminum body construction, compactness and precision of mechanical parts necessary to give maximum efficiency under the trying conditions to be encountered."

The Maytag is "First" everywhere.

Modern light is a result of the second step of scientific research called development. If there were no cheap lamps for college students to work by there would be fewer trained engineers to help lamp development go forward. Some day, lighting engineers tell us, we may look back on this age and call it dim, for it is claimed that ten or one hundred times more light than now might be used to benefit.
